Student Council President Craig Karr welcomed students back to the new and challenging year of '64-'65.

After a summer of many enjoyable experiences students arrived back at school with an eagerness to begin the year ahead. They shifted from the summer routine to the scholastic schedule, making the school day a definite part of their daily lives. Settled in class, students decided that this year's grades were important.

The sophomores came in slowly, timidly trying to find their way around the halls and still get to classes on time. How embarrassed they were when they found themselves in senior English rather than in their sophomore world history class. Camouflaged by their excessive paraphenalia, they were stupified by the casualness of the seniors who sauntered about the building with little or nothing occupying their attention.

Juniors, who had been anticipating the first assembly ever since their promotion from the "shelf" to the spot under the balcony, found themselves finally acclimated to high school routine. Proud to be juniors they took no pity on the lost sophomores, and only proceeded in getting them more confused.

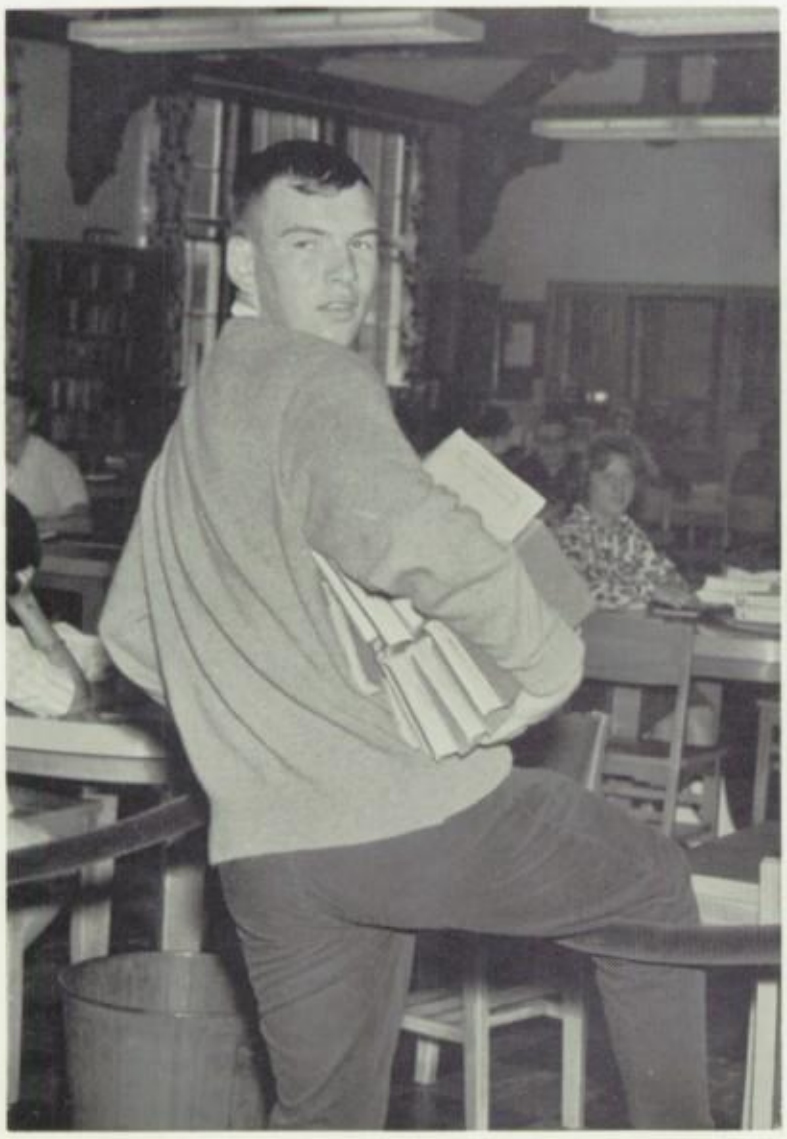
The "Biggest and the Best" found themselves entering their last year, the year of prestige. At long last they were the senior class — the class that they had always looked up to in years past. Now they had to carry the responsibility that came with that title of "Senior" — and they did.

Students Came Bac

During the warm weather at the beginning of the year, fire drills provided students with a pleasant interruption of classes.

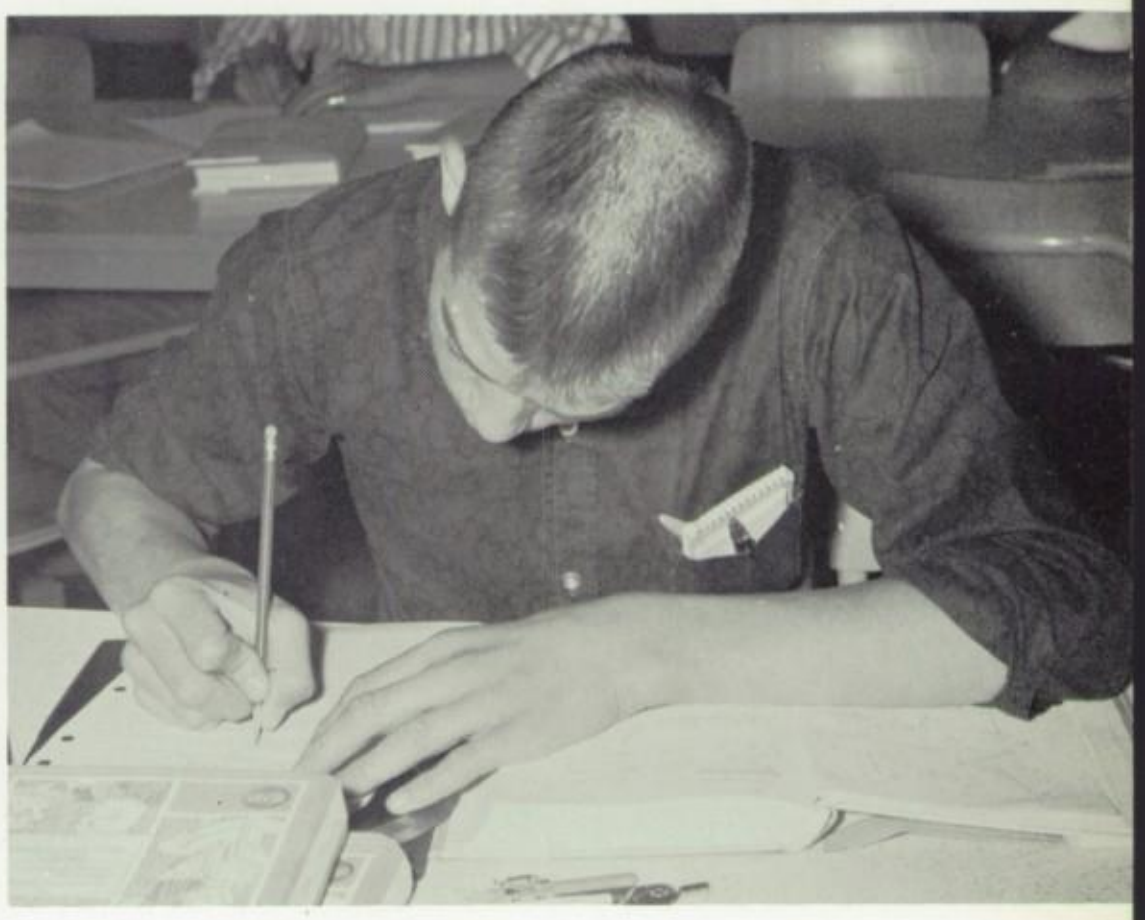
The Biology Department installed closed circuit T.V. to facilitate its team teaching program. Funds were obtained from two Federal grants: the U.S. Office of Education and the National Defense Education Act. Of the two cameras, one is manually operated (above) and the other is operated from the control room (right).

To Find A New And Varied School Routine



Paying no heed to the ropes, John Lang absconded with a few of the 12,000 books in the library to familiarize himself with the debate topic, which was control of nuclear weapons.

The problem of regaining study habits or creating new ones faced most students when they returned to Wausau Senior High after an invigorating summer's vacation.



The presentation of the Bellamy Award was perhaps the most important event in Wausau High's history. The delegates from previous award winning schools, national, state, and local dignitaries, the school board, and the oldest alumnus were present.

The honorable Melvin Laird from Wisconsin's 7th Congressional District took time from his busy schedule to give congratulations to the school and the people of Wausau.

Two Busy Weeks Left

The delegates of previous Bellamy Award schools were captivated by the patriotic music of the combined choir and band. The solemnity of the program left a lasting impression.

Wausau Eve found five girls quite excited — each realizing that only one could be 1964 homecoming queen. Barbara Louze was crowned by the reigning Miss Wisconsin Angela Gina Baldi.

To be a good end is to be a good target. John Wiechman, a prime example, caught this pass for a touchdown in the game against Menominee.

Homework Undone

The half-time shows presented by Wausau's band usually took two weeks of muddy rehearsals to perfect.

There were many who enjoyed the annual Junior Girls' Holiday Dance held at the Wausau Club.

A versatile brass section consisting of four trombones and four trumpets added a professional touch to the Tophatters' show this year. This was the twenty-fourth year of performances for the stage band. Since 1941 the band has given excellent musical shows causing its reputation of fine talent to spread throughout the entire Midwest.

Students Versed in the Arts Displaye

"Teahouse of the August Moon" was the most successful play ever put on by a senior class. Lotus Blossom and Sakini looked on as two villagers put on a judo match for Colonel Purdy's entertainment. The villagers provided an enthusiastic crowd. This play brought an extra challenge to the students acting as the Japanese people, for they were required to learn lines in Japanese and to speak them fluently. With the help of two women from Japan the students adapted quickly. The play was well received.

Mr. Riege directed the orchestra students as they played classical and contemporary works. From this study they learned to enjoy music as well as to understand it.

During the slumbering winter months, students were greeted by a dark bleak world when they arose in the early morning. By the time they had finished another day of school and had returned home, the shadows were deepening into complete darkness once again. But in those few short hours between dawn and dusk, pupils and teachers alike stretched their minds to encompass many new ideas. In the classrooms, as well as in extra-curriculars, students enriched their lives by uncovering vast treasures of knowledge.

Many students were engrossed in a rewarding study of music. Their varying interests led them to explore exciting new musical fields, including the "blues" from the Louisiana Delta, the jazz styles of the popular big bands, and the modern arrangements of Dave Brubeck. With study, technique, and practice, leading Wausau High musicians developed a repertoire which would challenge professionals. Besides, having musical abilities, many students found that their talents lay in the field of drama. As an outlet for such talents, Senior High produced two plays and sponsored a play-reading group in forensic competition. For other students, the Arts took the form of painting and sculpture. Excellent oils, watercolors, and sketches lined the halls of the art wing throughout the year.

With these activities, the dreary winter months slipped by, and spring peaked out from under the snow.

Their Many Talents

Creative art classes were enjoyed by many students. Here Chris Carspecken finished a painting of the American Negroes.

Throughout the basketball season, the vigorous action of the players made school spirit crescendo to a high pitch.

The empty assembly hall emphasized the fact that during spring vacation — before embarking on the final quarter — students

Spring Fever And "Senioritis" Curtaile

With spring came the rugged individualistic sport of track. Here the endurance and stamina of each team member was measured in the many challenging meets held throughout the season. Events included in the broad area of track were distance races, hurdles, high jumps, the pole vault, and the shot-put. Everett Goodwin was instantaneously stopped with fast-action photography as he leaped over the high jump. Meets were held in the gym as well as at Thom Field.

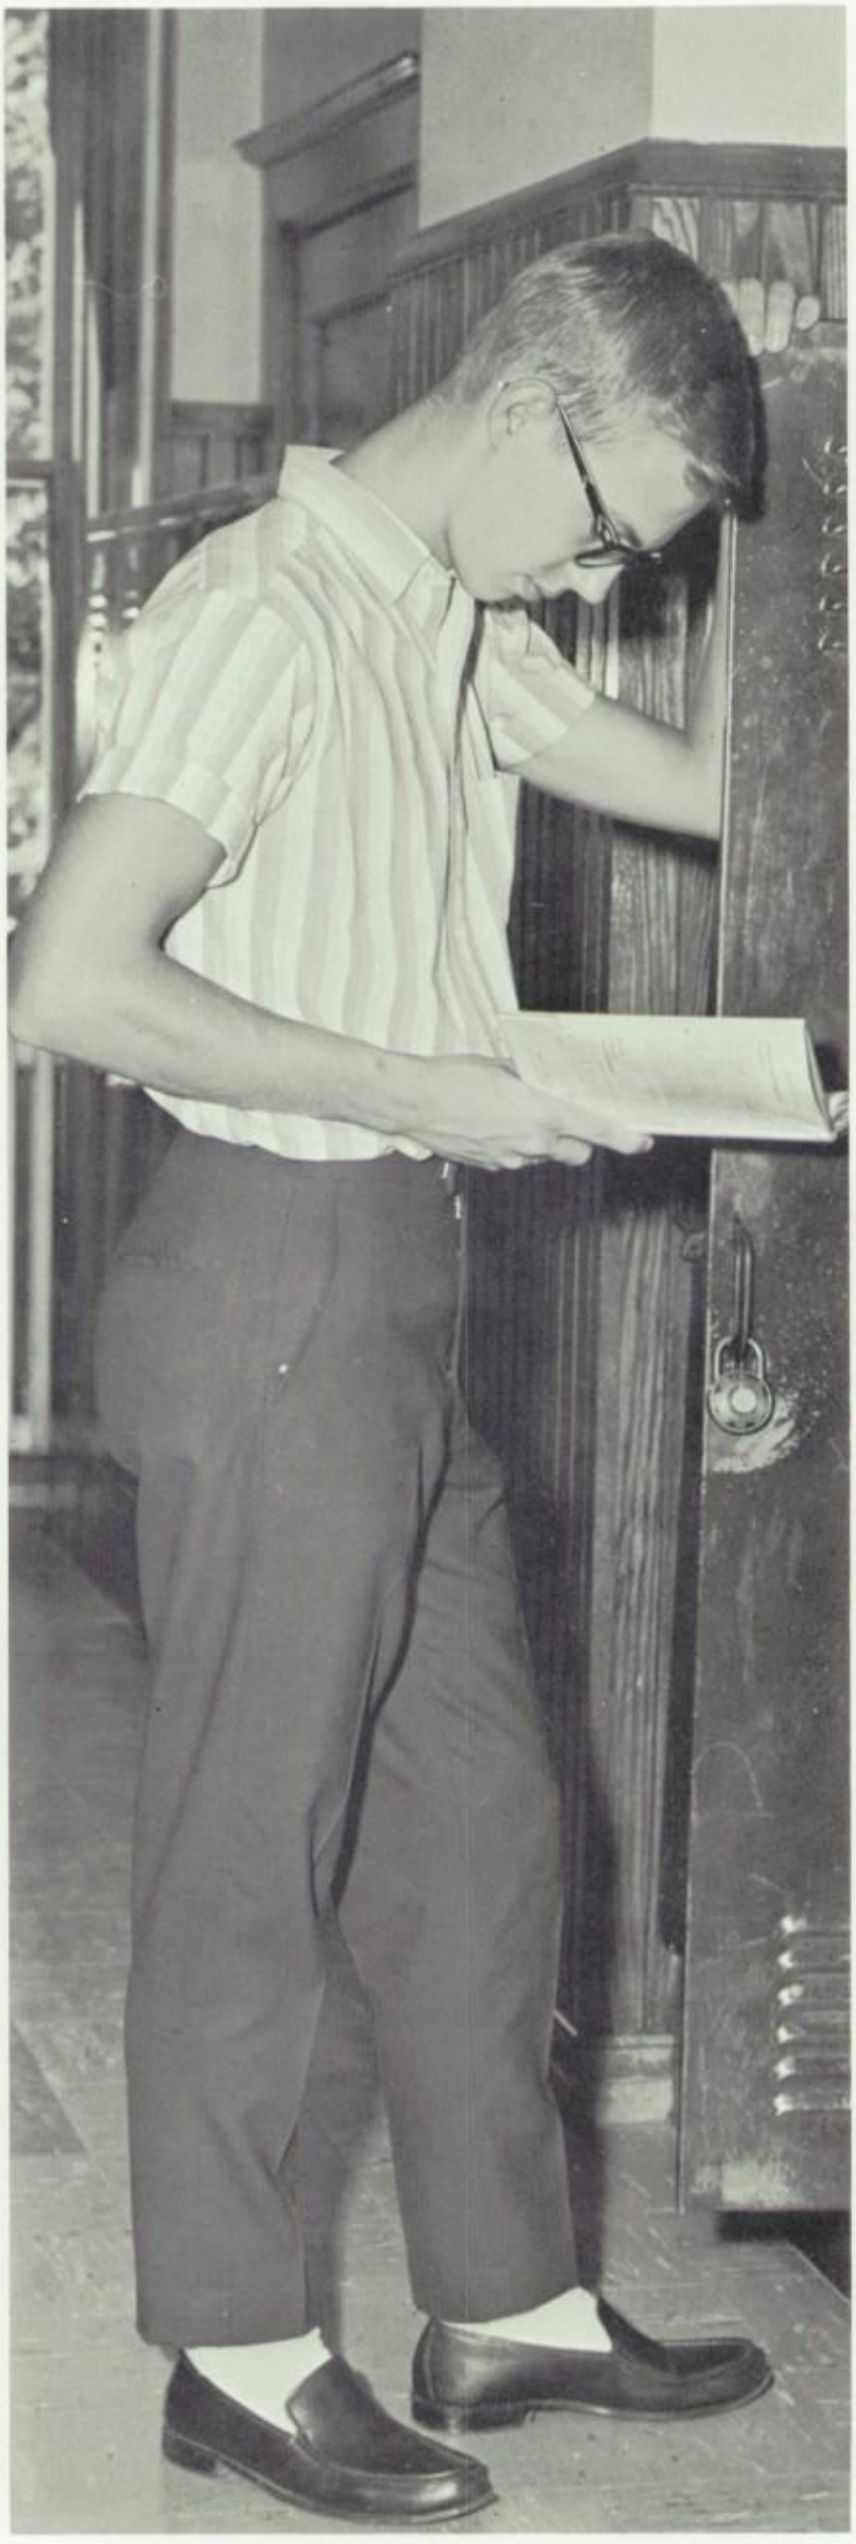
Right: Roger Coleson found time in his busy schedule to squeeze in a few moments of quiet reading.

Below: "These are the times that try men's souls."



Commencement And Baccalaureate Conveye

THE HAMMER SINGERS: Ted Anderson, Wayne Blaschka, and Jack Berard, provided the talent for the spring Hootenanny.

Although everyone knew that the Old Building was getting seedy, this budding tree was the first real proof.

Left: Doug Sturgeon was caught releasing wild emotions when confronted with an acceptance to his first choice college.

Below: Chris Beatty, coached by Mr. Marquardt, won the state American Legion oratorical championship. She went to St. Paul, where she placed second in the Regional Finals.

An Air Of Finality

In September when students counted the school weeks that lay ahead, they were disheartened by a number which seemed to approach infinity; but somehow those endless weeks slipped by unnoticed until April and May, when the counting resumed once again.

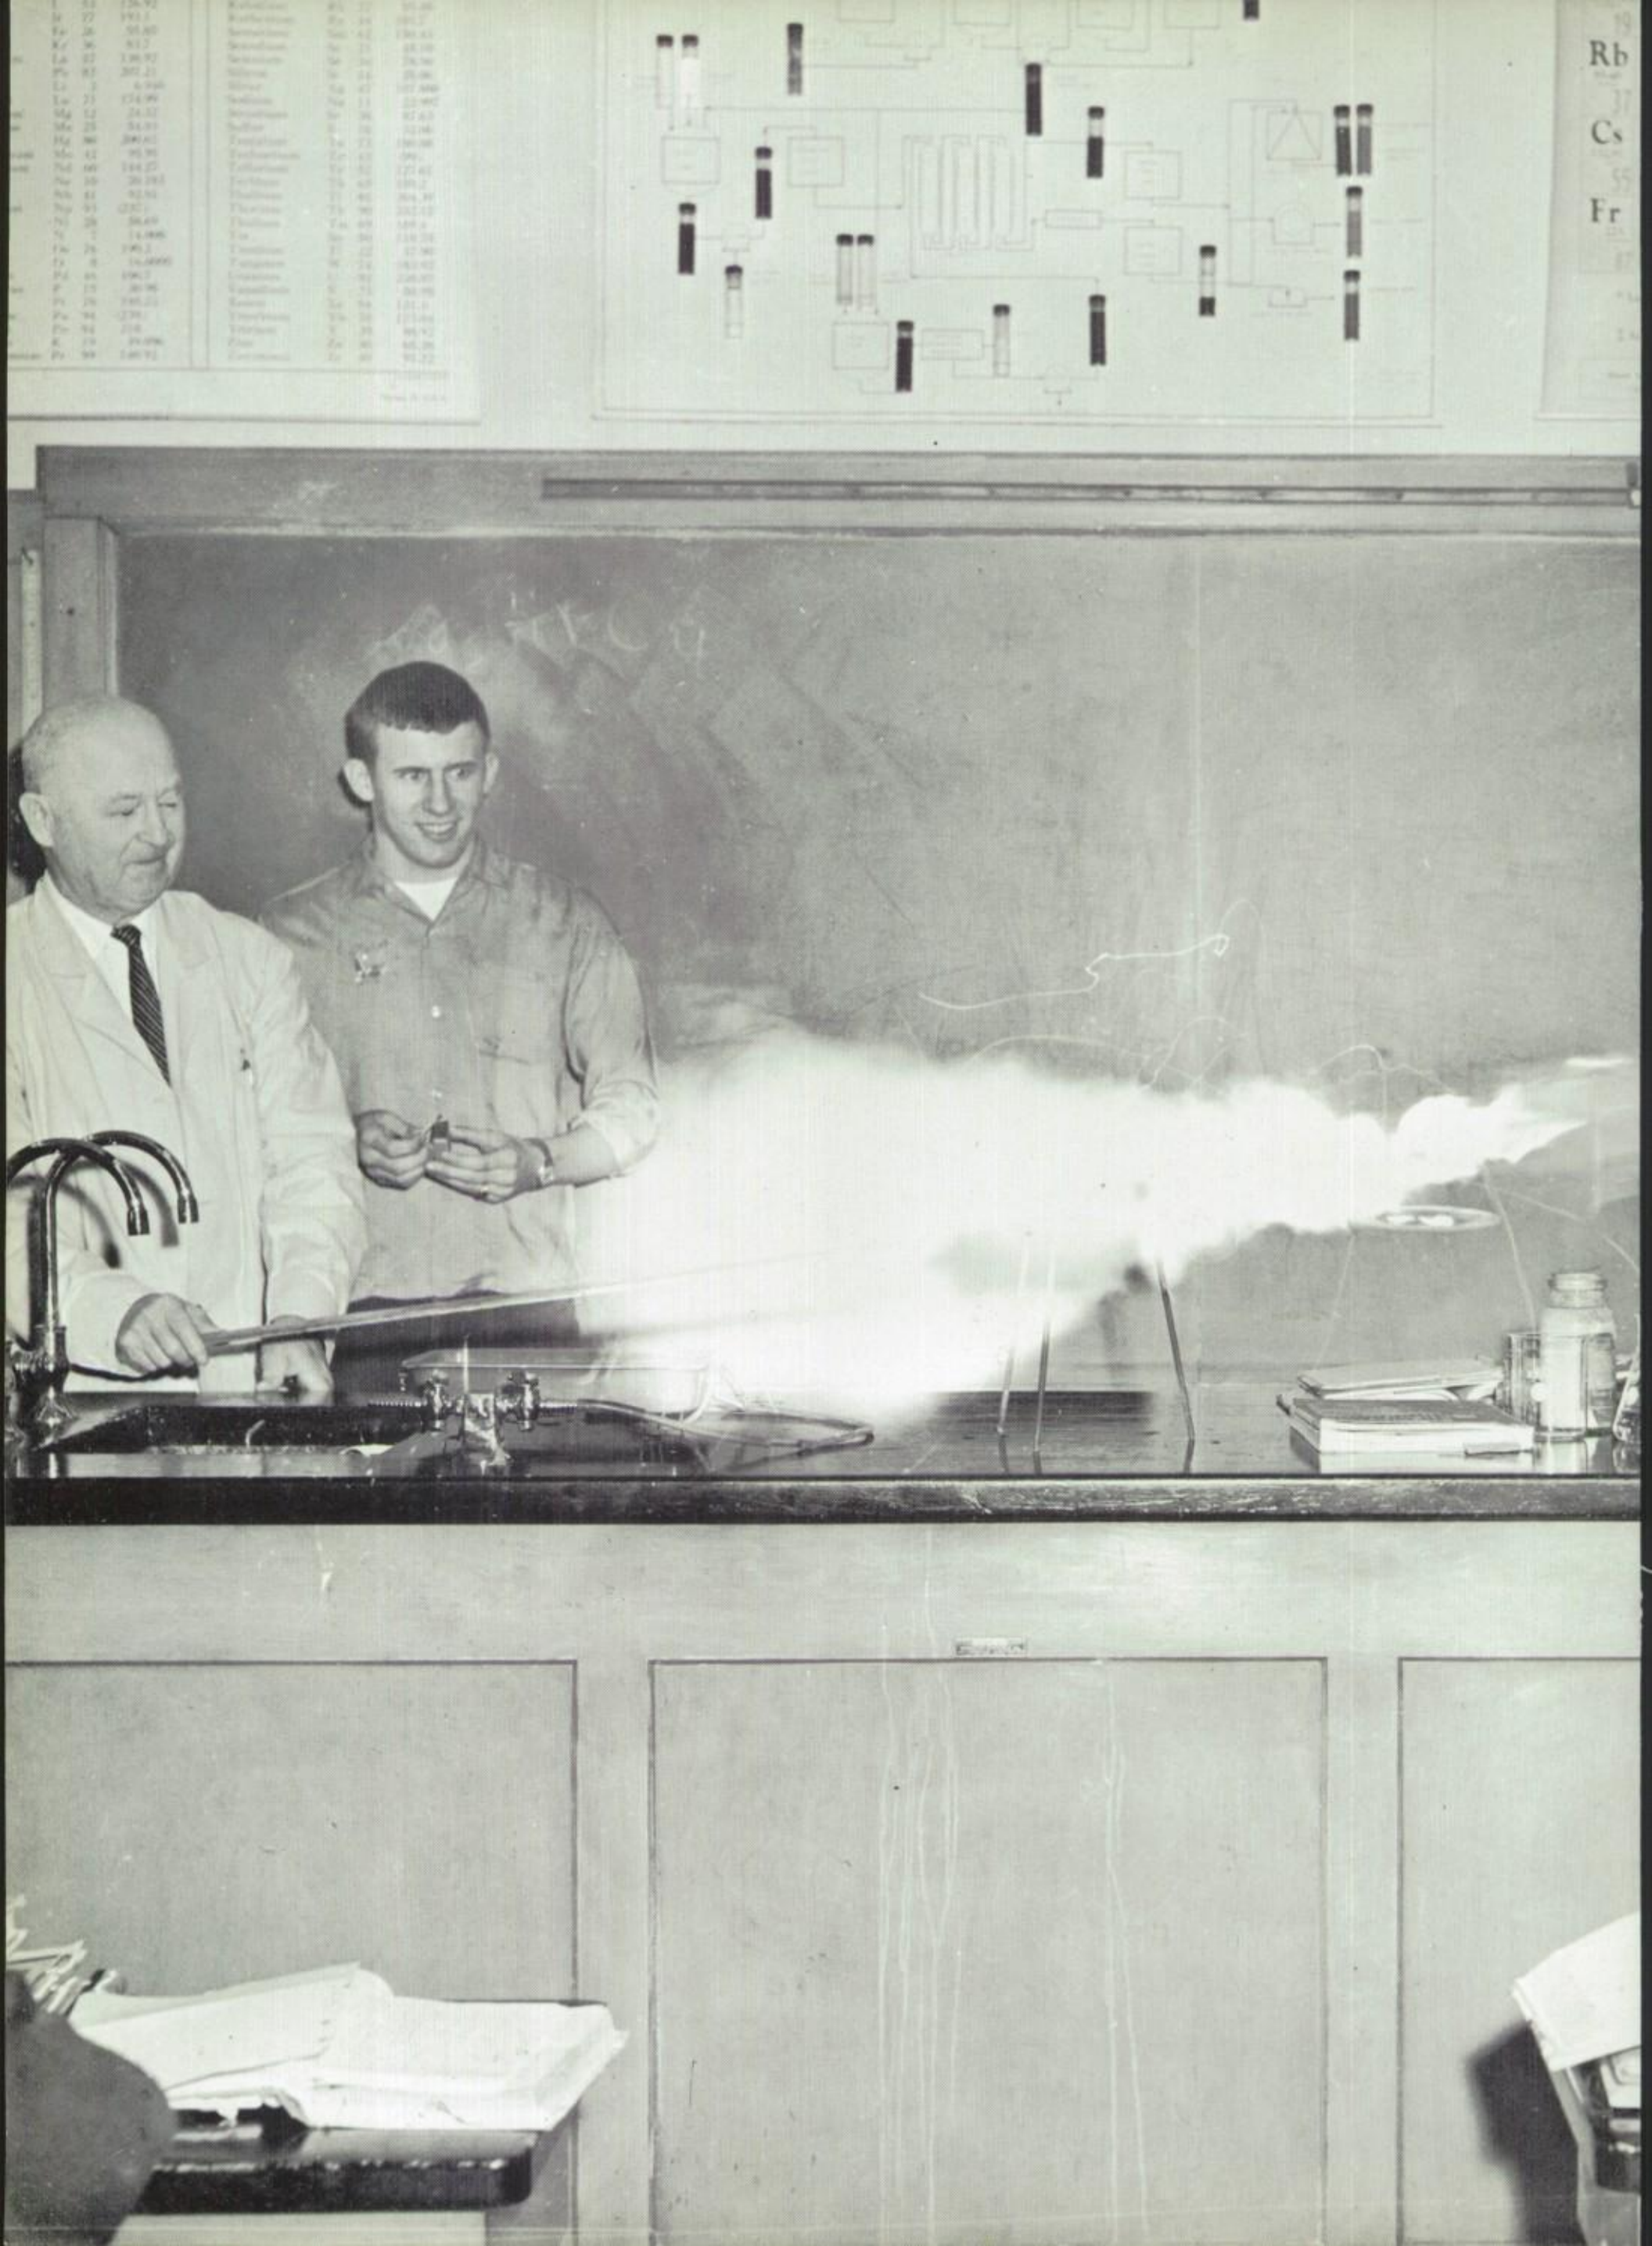
As the weeks dwindled from eight to seven, students became engrossed in try-outs and rehearsals for the spring play "The Devil's Disciple." Prom committee chairmen rushed from school to the Youth Building with Tahitian decorations, barely noticing in their flurry of excitement that the number of remaining weeks had suddenly decreased from six to four. The track team came out of hibernation, moving from the boys' gym to Thom Field. Tennis players struggled on the courts as golfers slaved on the fairways.

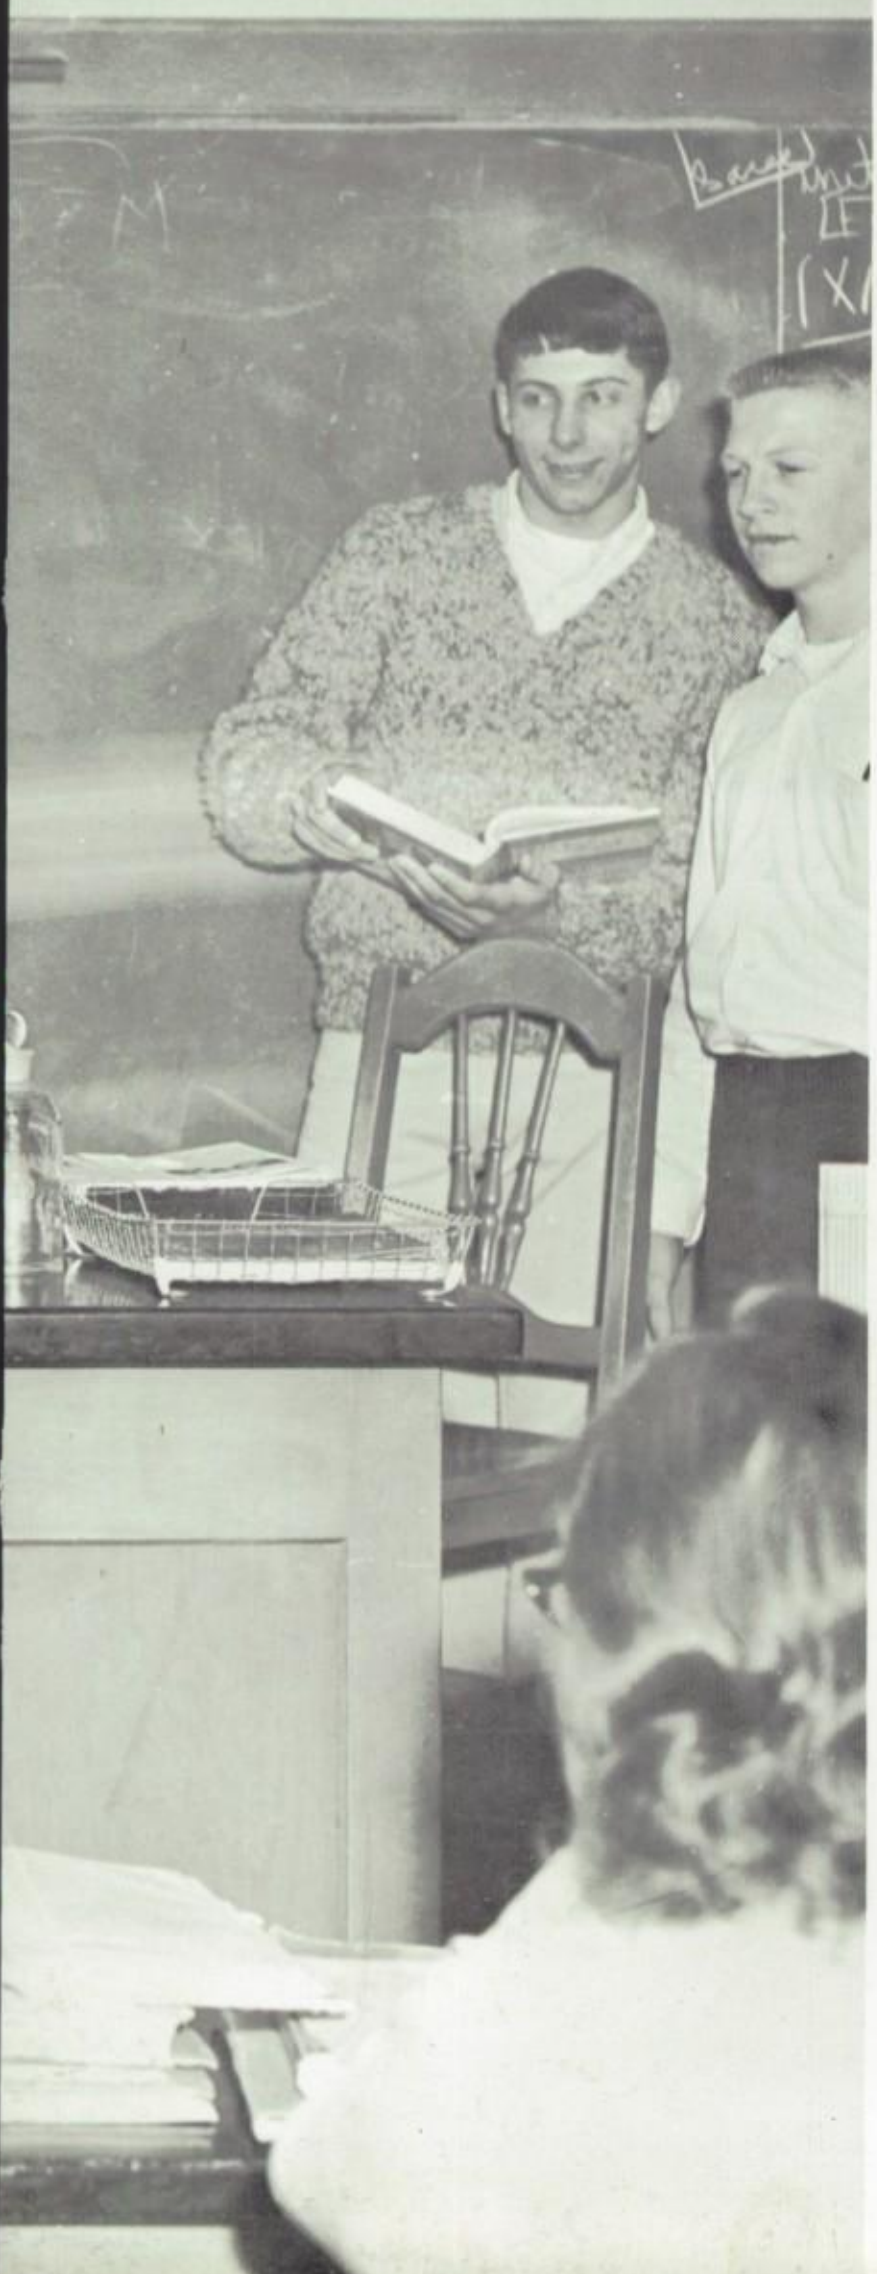
Meanwhile, seniors were busy planning the Baccalaureate and Commencement ceremonies. Very few had time to count the remaining weeks, which by then numbered only two. Soon even fewer students found time to study, since WAHISCAN signing parties and graduation affairs had flooded the calendar.

With such a whirlwind of activities everyone had a chance to thoroughly enjoy student life. However, by June 10 there wasn't one WHS student who regretted turning in his text books and calling it a year. Memories of games, hops, and exams took a back seat to thoughts of waterskiing, swimming, and relaxing.

Char Maas, state Future Teachers president, introduced the featured speaker and national president Dr. Faust at the state convention held in Wausau during the spring.

Seniors walked away from their alma mater to enter a new life. The distance of the walk will depend upon each person's initiative.





ACADEMICS

As sophomores we struggled through the Shakespearean English in Julius Caesar and the biology classifications of Moon, Mann, and Otto. In our junior year we debated with liberal history teachers about the need for government regulation of business. As mighty seniors we were humbled by the poetic words of Chaucer and Milton. Thus each year we stretched our minds to encompass new ideas and found that they never returned to their original dimensions.

OUR HERITAGE

It has been said that schools reflect the communities they serve. We believe that throughout the entire history of this community, our public schools have met the demands made of them and have played a significant role in making Wausau the kind of city which it is today. Traditionally, communities throughout this nation have demanded more of their schools than have other communities in any other nation on earth, not only as an attempt to promote scholarship, but as an effort to realize the promise of the American dream of a good society.

Local citizens have supported quality education here by providing a comprehensive program, competent teachers, necessary facilities, and instructional equipment which enable the students to develop their full potential.

Over the years, Senior High has been blessed with dedicated School Board members, talented teachers, and students of the very highest character — this combination has led to many achievements and a tradition for high standards of scholarship and high standards in all extra curricular activities as well. We have developed a pride in our school and community which inspires us to do our very best. Perhaps our most notable achievement, because it involves an evaluation of all aspects of our school program, has been our selection as the recipient of the 23rd annual Bellamy Flag Award in 1964. Ours is the school which will represent the State of Wisconsin in Bellamy Award affiliation for the next fifty years. It is certainly an honor to have been selected to represent numerous quality schools in Wisconsin and it is our hope that we may always be worthy of this kind of recognition.

Many of our alumni have distinguished themselves in various business, industrial, and professional fields. We are confident that our present and future students will continue to represent us in the very highest tradition. New methods and procedures in the instructional area will continue to help us upgrade our total program. We are confident that the background you have gotten, and the individual experiences you have had while participating in our activities at Senior High, will help you to make those life adjustments which are essential for a happy, successful, and enriched life. We are certain that together we shall continue to achieve our goals, and we know you join us in accepting the challenge to do an even better job in the future.

Congratulations to all students, faculty members, cafeteria workers, and custodians on a superb team effort which has made it possible for us to have another outstanding academic year in 1964 and 1965. Best wishes for continued success in the future.

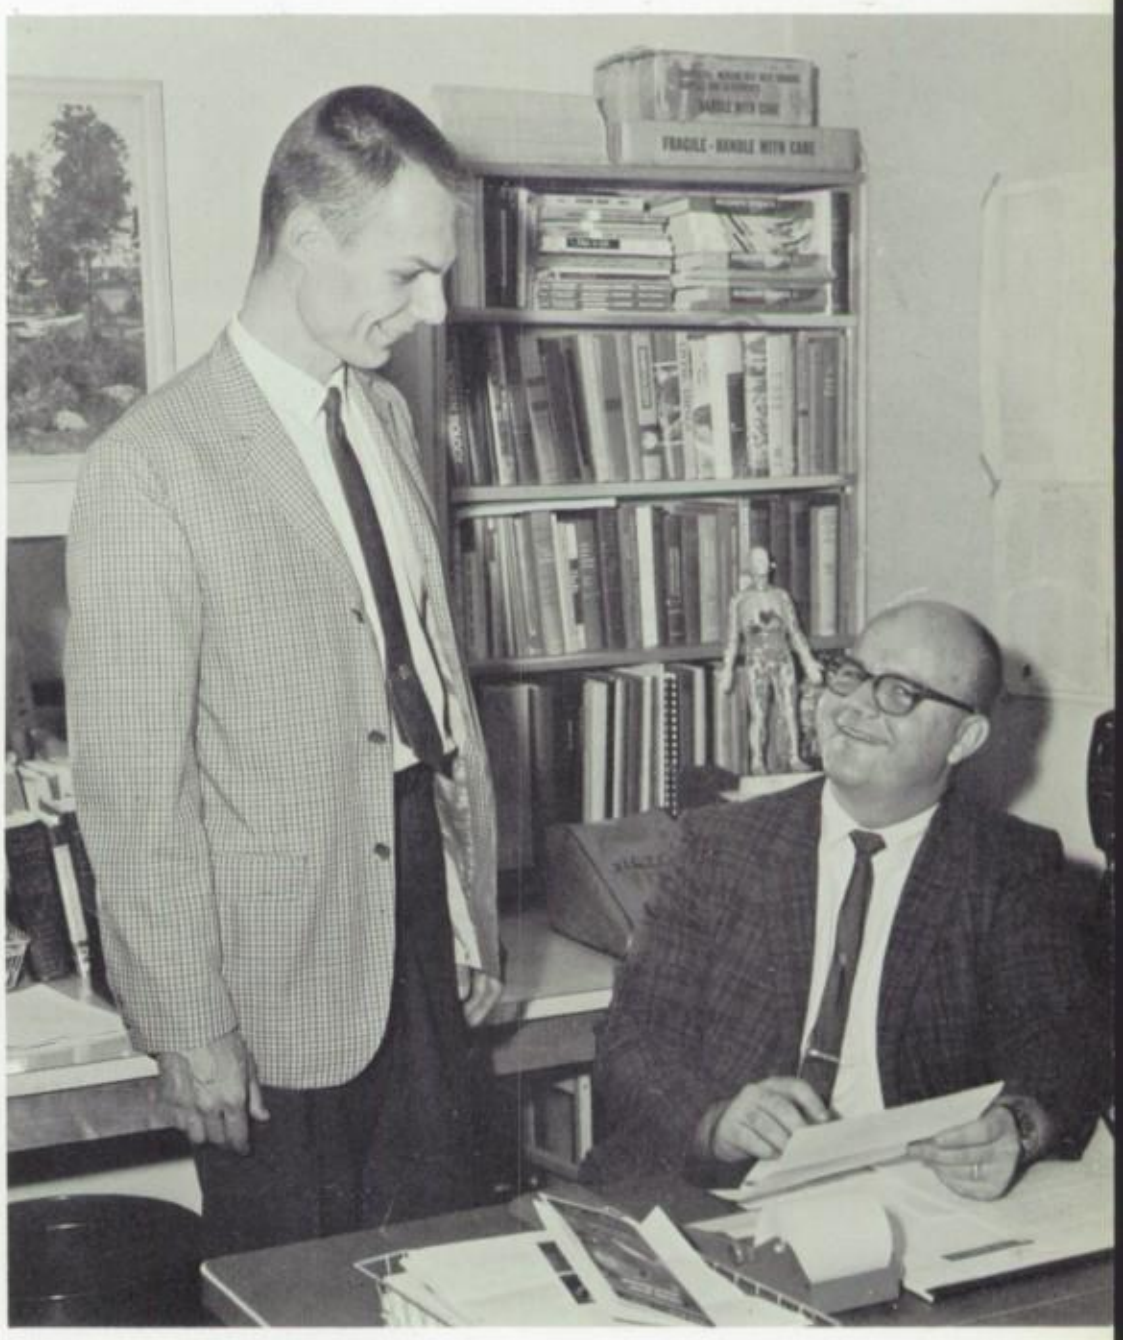
Mr. Harvey J. Ridge, Attendance Director, spent many busy hours admitting late students, compiling absentee slips, and filing tardy passes. The WAHISCAN staff wishes Mr. Ridge much happiness in his forthcoming retirement.

Perceptive Administration Guided School

Mr. E. A. Baranowski, School Treasurer, and Mr. C. G. Poulos, Administrative Assistant, discussed school correspondence.



Office secretaries, Mrs. LaCerte, Mrs. Seavers, and Mrs. Tetzlaff, were kept busy with the lost and found department, complaint department, answering the telephone, scheduling appointments, and keeping the office out of complete pandemonium.

Discerning Counselors Helped Studen

Guidance Director, Mr. C. R. Swenby.

The school's guidance department helped students throughout the year to plan their high school programs to meet future needs. This was done both by a series of tests, which indicated students' preferences and abilities, and by personal interviews with the counselors. Students' records were discussed with respect to ulterior goals.

In addition to these duties the department also furnished students with a continuous stream of information concerning college and job opportunities. Counselors worked closely with representatives sent from various colleges and the state employment service. Although these representatives were here independently, it was by Mr. Swenby's invitation that they visited our school. Mr. Swenby was also instrumental in coordinating the activities of the guidance personnel so that each student had an opportunity to obtain help if he so desired.

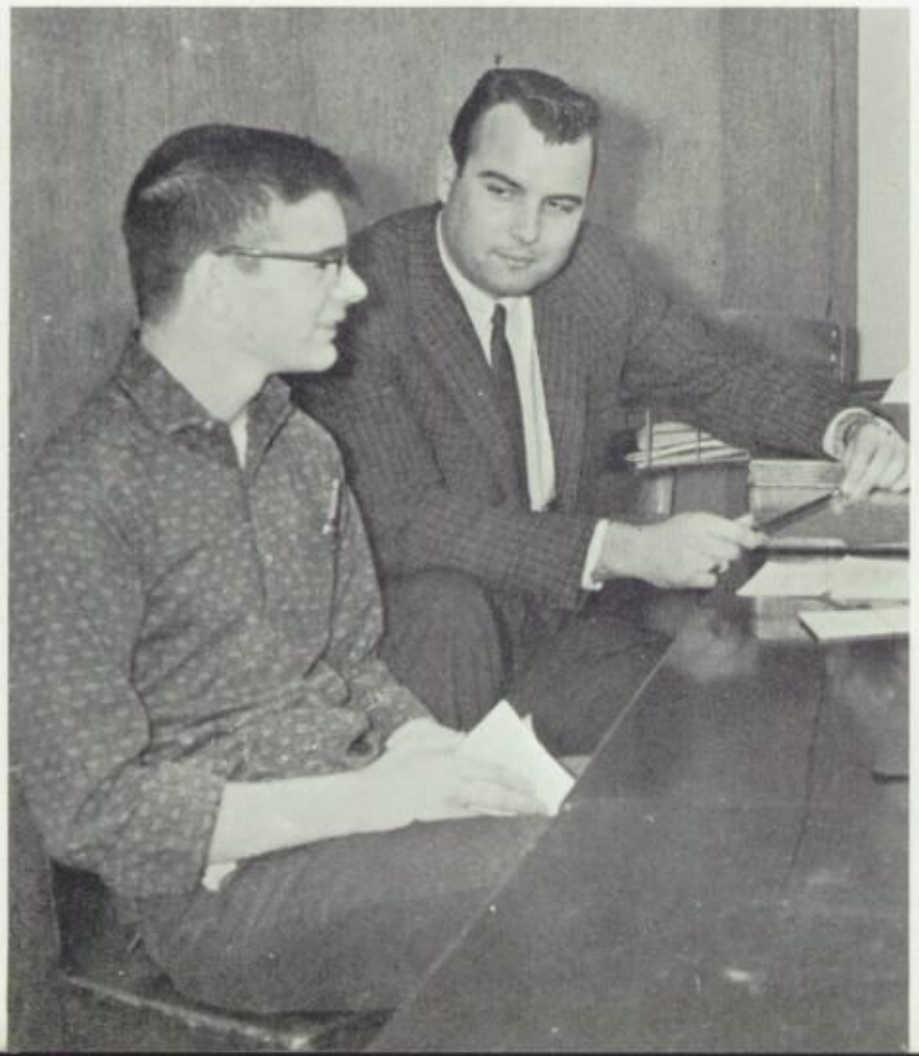
Mr. Staats, senior class guidance counselor, could hardly be distinguished from teenagers when he took to the road.

Seniors contemplating the awesome realm of college life were encouraged to make use of the informative catalogues and brochures found in the guidance department.

ecide Present Needs And Future Plans

Miss Scott discussed test scores relating to vocations, interests, and abilities with a class of juniors. Over four thousand tests were administered by guidance personnel during the 1964-1965 school year, including the C.T. & M.M., SCAT, and GAT tests.

Mr. Gerald Gessler expounded on various facets of campus life at Carroll College to interested students.



Mrs. Eikeland spoke with many college bound students about entrance examinations and admissions applications.

Learning Was A Two-Way Proposition

"Corn always grows taller in Iowa", stated sophomore social science teacher Mr. Solomonson, as he reminisced.

Mr. Henderson combined a vast knowledge of American history with personal teaching techniques to produce a comprehensive course for high school juniors. His students could not escape the realization that he was a very competent authority on the Civil War and, especially, on the life of President Lincoln.

Going beyond the usual realm of history, Mr. Henderson lectured on such current topics as "one hundred per cent Americanism," government regulation on big business, prayer in public schools, the John Birch Society, and McCarthyism. During the height of the presidential campaign, when radicals and reactionaries were often at each other's throats, Mr. Henderson inspired many heated political discussions in room 152. Students were not only exposed to his views in lectures and discussions, but also in his frequent letters to "Brought by the Postman."

Dynamic Staff Offere

ABOVE LEFT:
The social science department invariably proved that birds of a feather flock together. Mr. Woods, Mr. Bennett, and Miss Riedeman formed their own clique even at meal time because no other teachers would tolerate their radical viewpoints.

LEFT:
Mr. Radcliff, an intern teacher from Eau Claire State University, took grades from a check test. He was one of four intern teachers who spent the first semester gaining classroom experience.

BELOW:

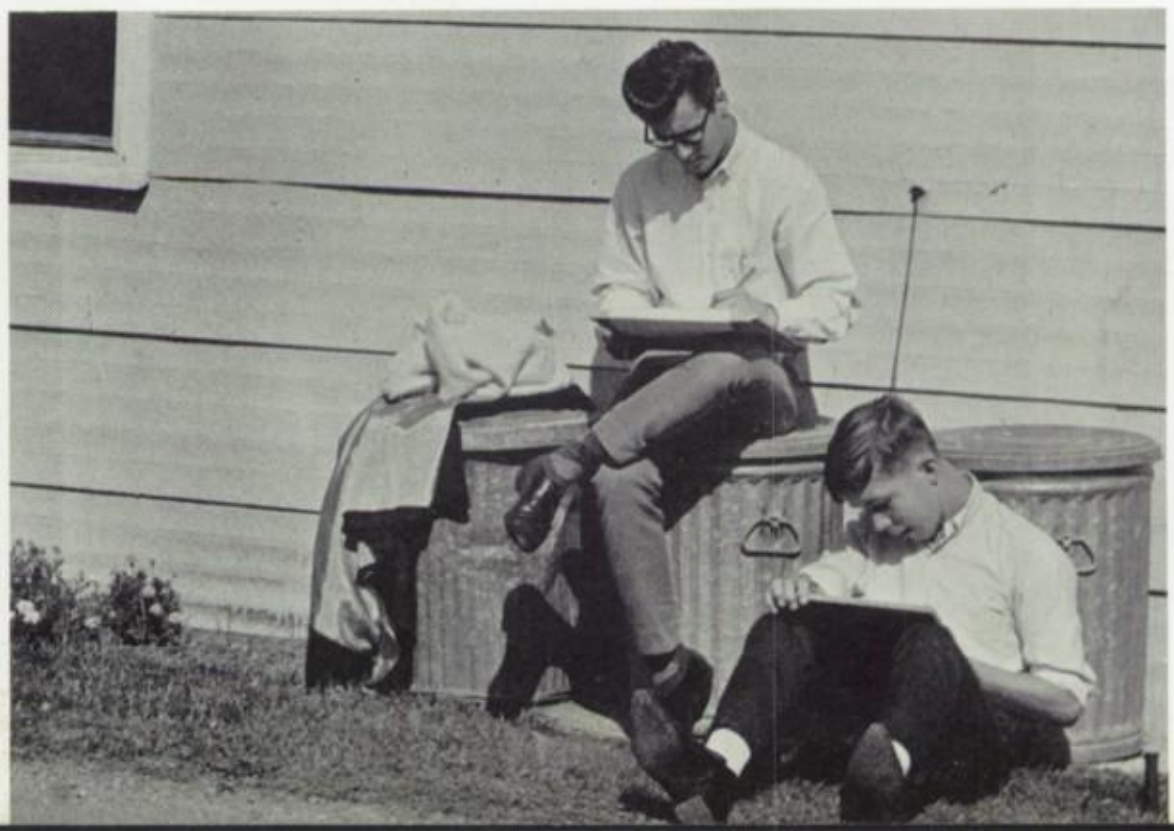
aried Curriculum

ABOVE:
Mr. Hagemann demonstrated the conductivity of solutions for the integrated science class. This course was designed for advanced students. It correlated chemistry, physics, and biology in preparation for college level science.

RIGHT:
Mrs. Meuret, physical education teacher for junior and senior girls, displayed good form as she demonstrated a volleyball spike.

BELOW RIGHT:
Art class was eagerly anticipated for it gave students an excuse to work outside, eliminating the inherent inhibitions of the classroom. Paul Spiegel and Mike Wadinski sketched their impressions while perched on garbage cans.



Many teachers who demanded the undivided attention of their students during class were caught at the first fall faculty meeting practicing the opposite of what they preached. Too much summer vacation for them!

Jim Wicke, one of Barry's boys, turned against his presidential candidate on Madhatters' Day to everyone's surprise.

Quiet discussion of school work was permitted at library tables, but many students found silent concentration best.

Teachers Broadened Students' Knowledge

As Miss Hedblom's finite math students plunged further into the realm of mathematics, they began to realize how little they knew and how much they still had to learn.

HT: Fair weather brought the boys' gym classes out-of-doors for football. After a half-mile on the sidewalk, the boys arrived at Thom Field for their game. Later they retraced their s, returning to school for their next class.

Advanced biology classes gave sophomore students an opportunity to explore the fascinating microscopic world of plant and animal life. A silk worm thoracie leg was studied by Kathlyn Petrowski and Kari Westburg.

STUDENT LIFE

When we cheered the Lumberjacks to victory, campaigned for the homecoming candidates, rehearsed for "The Devil's Disciple", danced at the Prom, or participated in club activities, we contributed to the student life of Wausau High. In turn, the fun and satisfaction we enjoyed in our lives as students will contribute to wonderful memories for years to come.

The Bellamy Award Brought New Friends

Craig Karr, Student Council President, accepted the Bellamy Flag for the student body from Mr. Fred Braun.

On a Friday morning, at 9:30 A.M., Wausau Senior High School was given a very special honor. It was October 9, 1964, when, in a very patriotic and distinguished ceremony, Wausau High was presented the 1964 National Bellamy Flag Award by Dr. Margarette S. Miller.

The actual presentation program climaxed the activities of the week. Previous to the program a trip to the school forest and a picnic was enjoyed by our guests. A dinner and dance were also arranged for student guests and hosts at the Y.M.C.A. All visiting students and delegates took a trip to Northern Wisconsin to view the lake country of Wisconsin. Invited guests from the community and all visiting guests were served dinner one night at the school cafeteria. They were entertained by the Franklin School Fun Band.

The runner-up for the Bellamy Award for 1964 was Oshkosh High School. A special runner-up award was presented by Mrs. Greer, a member of the Bellamy Board, to the principal, Dr. Carl Traeger.

Since the presentation of the Bellamy Award, undoubtedly just about every senior, junior, and sophomore realize that it was Francis Bellamy of Rome, New York, who wrote the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. It was first used on October 21, 1892, in observing the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America.

Dr. Margarette S. Miller, Bellamy Award Chairman, made the presentation to the Wausau Senior High School Alumni.

Ronnie Ashcraft, from Tulsa Oklahoma, presented Wausau Senior High with the gift of an Indian headdress.

nd Lasting Pride To All At Wausau High

It was with great pride and admiration that the audience welcomed David Bruce Marth, from the class of 1965, to the rostrum. David, the winner of the American Legion National Oratorical contest, gave his winning oration, "The Constitution — Our Temple of Freedom" at the award presentation. Thus, two major successes of Wausau Senior High School, the Bellamy Award and the national oratorical champion, were brought together.

To qualify for the Bellamy Award a school must be of a certain calibre and have specific characteristics. Miss Miller gave the following reasons for Wausau Senior High School's becoming the 1964 Bellamy Award School:

The Proficiency of Performance of Duty by its Principal.

The Wausau Story.

The All-School Conservation Education Program.

The Exceptionally High Calibre of the Teaching Corps.

The Rich Tradition for High Standards and a Comprehensive Program.

The Student Body Imbued with a High Level of Responsible Citizenship.

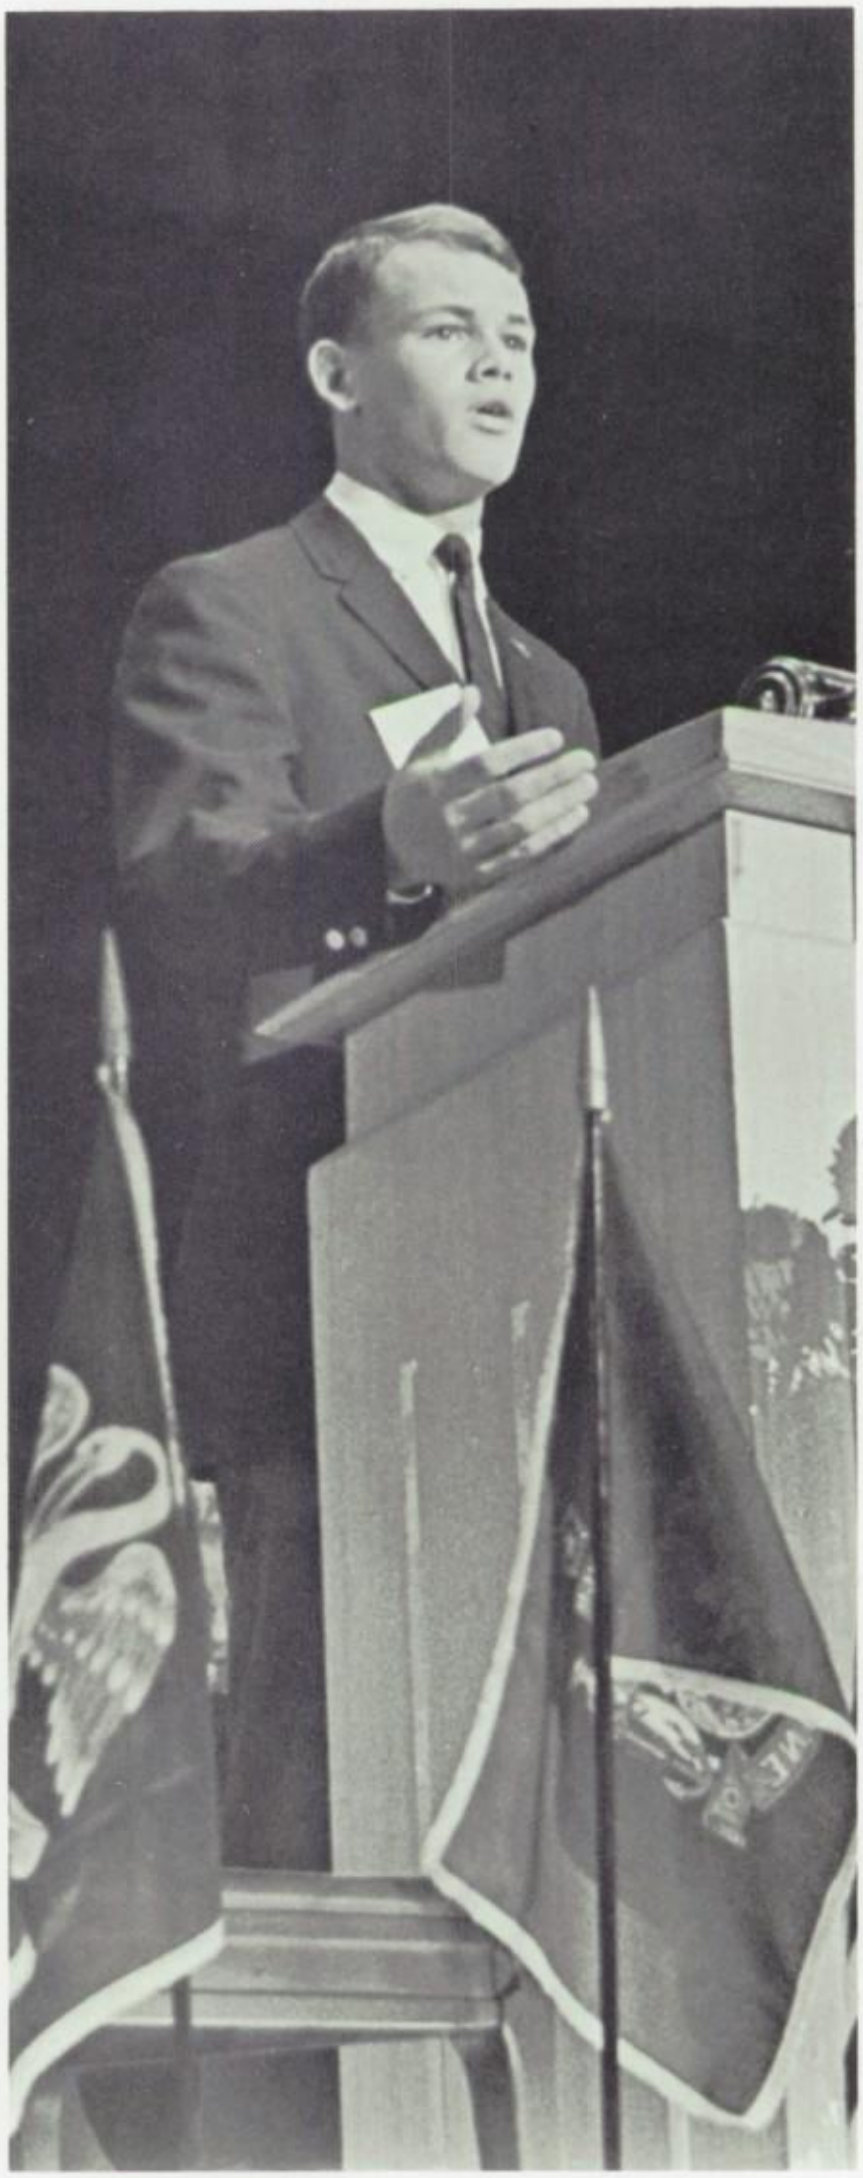
The Accomplishments of the Alumni.

The Enviable and Respected Record in Debate and Public Speaking.

The Athletic Program, One of High Distinction.

The School-Press Relationship.

David Bruce Marth used a gesture to stress his sincerity in his winning oration, "The Constitution - Our Temple of Freedom."



Mr. Marshall Taylor expressed his deep pride and honor in Wausau High for winning the National Bellamy Award.

Program Committee Planned Activities

The first few days during Bellamy Award week were devoted to guest registration and classroom visitation.

Bob Johnson and Patti Averett, two of the twenty-seven Bellamy Award delegates, signed in from Tennessee.

Student Exchange Program Active At WHS

Anaig displayed the French talent for art as she put the finishing touches on a watercolor painting.

Spending a whole year in a foreign country is certainly a wonderful experience, but the reasons why it is wonderful can vary. Things are different when countries are different, of course, but does it matter if we wear short-shorts while you wear bermudas? Does it matter if we drive at eighteen when we can drink whenever we want to? Only one thing is important: the people. The American people are different. I have recognized it not only in their language but also in their hospitality. They are always ready to smile to make you feel better. Why the American people are so nice I can't explain, but they certainly are wonderful, and this will be the impression of Wausau and of the U.S.A. that I will never forget.

I know that one day I will have forgotten all about Wausau High. I won't remember the curling, the football and basketball games, or the long, quiet halls. (I swear I've seen them like that once—it was one evening at eight p.m.) I will forget Mr. Bennett's essay tests, and the great smile he had when he said: "France is a mess!"

The day when I won't even remember how to pronounce "Folies Bergeres" with an American accent, and when I will have completely found my French accent again, I will still remember that this year in Wausau was one of the happiest years of my life, and one of the richest, too

Anaig Coulouarn

After a hectic day, Anaig and Steve wore relieved smiles as they headed for a more relaxing environment.

For two months in the summer of my junior year, I lived as an Italian, ate Italian food, walked in the Italian countryside, and breathed the smog of a big Italian city. I swam in the Mediterranean, played volleyball with Italian boys, and danced with Italian girls. I lived an altogether different life from the one I was used to; it was more active, more open, and more influential. When I looked back at my former self and home, I saw things in a different light. Things which had once been important to me became petty. I found out, to my surprise, that my friends and I weren't the sophisticates we thought we were. America was not always superior as I had been led to believe; there are more fulfilling and satisfying things in this world than we experience here in America.

After I came back I soon forgot most of what I had learned. But certain things I can't forget because they have become a part of me. Besides an aggravated case of wanderlust, an inability to become involved in the "little" things of life, I have the memory of a summer in an Italian metropolis, and days on white beaches bordering the Atlantic — a summer that is, and always will be for me, the most beautiful.

Wausau Week Expressed Vivid Imagination

A multitude of sleepy students kicked off Wausau Week early Monday morning by chanting a few vociferous cheers during the assembly in the gym. Following this, Miss Schadney introduced the Queen candidates, and Mr. Brockmeyer introduced the "Fighting Lumberjacks". For the next few days, booster buttons, campaign posters, and painted cars were constant reminders of the school spirit generated by Wausau Week.

Following tradition, the queen candidates paraded around the campus Tuesday noon in a final horn-honking campaign. Elections were held during the homeroom period directly after lunch. On Thursday, Madhatters' Day, imaginative students crowned themselves with everything under the sun — including skunks! That evening prizes were awarded for the most striking creations.

Wausau Eve highlighted a memorable week. It featured Angela Baldi as Miss Wisconsin, Bob Skoronski of the Green Bay Packers, and the Harlem River Swamp Rats. For the first time in Wausau Eve history, the Tophatters performed at the show. Late in the evening, as a climatic finish to a wonderful night, Dave Ullrich, master of ceremonies, broke a silent spell of tension with the proclamation that Barbara Louze had been chosen the 1964 Wausau Day Queen. After being crowned, she reigned over the homecoming dance.

Friday night a spirited Wausau team rolled over Menomonie with a score of 47-14. A victory hop after the game brought Wausau Week to a delightful close.

No vehicles were barred from the Wausau Week parade. As a result, everything from tractors to Continentals was fantastically decorated in support of queen candidates.

Above right: During the new teachers' skit, Mrs. McElrath, Miss Zepplin, Miss Herbst, Mr. Reitz, and Miss Coyle were given a chance to reminisce about how they spent their time as students.

The top ten finalists in the Madhatters' Day contest modeled their winning creations for judges who graded them on originality, theme, imagination, and over-all appearance.

Excitement and suspense marked the feelings of all who participated in Wausau Eve activities. Students themselves put on the show with the added entertainment of professionals.

Wausau Eve Brought Diversified Talent

The Harlem River Swamp Rats, from the University of Wisconsin, brought additional entertainment to Wausau Eve with their "Blue-grass" music.

Miss Cornwell, forced to marry the villainous Mr. Smith, was saved by the dashing hero, none other than Mr. Furr, in this year's old teachers stunt.

Queen Bobbi Reigned Over Wausau Day

The climatic moment of a wonderful evening came when Angela Baldi, Miss Wisconsin, crowned Barbara Jean Louze Wausau Day Queen for 1964. It will always be a memorable event which Bobbi will never completely forget.

The Queen's Court—Peggie Post, Sandy Ostring, Barb Wheeler, and Sue Ross—and their companions—Bob Norberg, Paul Evans, Bill Arvold, and Lynn Buss—waited as Mike Ryan escorted Queen Barb Louze down the traditional white carpet.

Sandra Ostring and Peggie Post gave cheerful smiles before the homecoming game on Friday night. The Queen and her Court were presented to the audience during the half time, thus bringing the week to a royal finish.

"Teahouse Of The August Moon" Was A Hit

Miss Stelmahoske and Miss Schadney were aided by Jim Smit and John Roberts in directing and producing the play, "Teahouse of the August Moon."

The dramatists from the mighty class of 1965 worked for a month memorizing lines of dialogue, concentrating on their placements on stage, and trying to capture the true character of their roles, to present "Teahouse of the August Moon" on November 18th and 19th.

The play took place in Tobiki, where chaos broke out when an American occupation unit moved in to "enlighten" the islanders with Western world culture. Sakini, the poverty-stricken philosophical interpreter, was played by Mike Ryan. He kept the audience amused and informed with his side-remarks. Captain Fisby, the head of the unit in Tobiki, was portrayed by Bob Norberg. Constantly making a blunder of things, Fisby had Colonel Purdy (impersonated by Pete Hessert) convinced that he was insane. Purdy sent a psychiatrist to secretly examine Fisby, but his plan backfired when the "little man in the white jacket" became affected with the Okinawan way of life. Fisby gave poor Purdy a terrific headache when he built a teahouse instead of the official pentagon-shaped schoolhouse and added a geisha girl in the process!

The entire cast, through the help of Miss Stelmahoske and Miss Schadney, put forth its best efforts to reach the final result which was a very successful and highly amusing, "Teahouse of the August Moon."

"Mist" Was Theme of Junior Girls' Dance

Soft strains of music filled the air as more than two hundred and fifty couples danced to the music of the Lynn Winch Orchestra, on the night of the 1964 Junior Girls' Holiday Dance. The theme "Mist" was supplemented with glittering snowflakes and mistletoe dotting a gold and white crepe paper ceiling. Greens and poinsettias adorned the walls. Arrangement of snow-covered evergreens and a bubbling water fountain was situated to one side of the dancing floor. Preparations started early with the problem of finding a source for the "Mist". The solution came in the form of a fountain filled with dry ice. This however presented another problem, for there was no dry ice to be found in Wausau, and it finally had to be shipped from Marshfield, Wisconsin. Four freshman girls from John Muir Junior High School served the refreshing punch and colorful Christmas cookies in the Terrace Room at the Wausau Club. Parties before and after the dance added to the enjoyment of the evening.

The purpose of Junior Girls' to earn enough money for a senior girl's scholarship was accomplished with much hard work and a great amount of fun.

"Theme To A Zombie" Introduced Tophatters

The rhythm section provided a strong, reliable beat for the rest of the band. This year's ensemble (piano and vibes not shown) was marked by talent and experience.

The 1965 brass section was certainly one of the best in Tophatter's long history. It featured the precisional, driving power which was necessary to hold the band together.

Superb Entertainment Was Enjoyed By All

The organization of the program rested in the hands of the leader and master of ceremonies. Chuck Borth and Jim Smit maintained the traditional high standards of performance.

Tophatters offered diversified entertainment for every taste. Marsha Cutting and Leslie Swazee demonstrated poise in this year's unique dance routine — "Wedding Cha Cha Cha."

Versatility in the sax section became a Tophatter "first" this year. Two of the members Borth and Salzman, doubled on clarinet and gave the band a new and different sound.

Tophatters returned to the tradition of playing for more than just an annual show. The band played at the Thursday night Wausau Eve program, providing music during short intervals in the show and adding to the majesty and suspense of the crowning of the queen.

The boys practiced continually for the 24th annual show given on January 7, 1965. They even had practices every week-day morning of Christmas vacation, beginning at 8:00 A.M.! The show on Thursday night was attended by about 1000 persons. Under the direction of Chuck Borth, student leader, and Jim Smit, Master of Ceremonies, the band presented a varied program of new and old favorites.

Soloists were found in all sections, with Chuck Borth on clarinet and alto sax, Ron Lassow on trumpet, Dick Sheerar on tenor sax, and Jim Wicke on trombone. The vocal additions to the show were supplied by a duet featuring Jan Bauman and Ron Jacobson, and the solo "Tonight" by Roger Spiecher. A skit satirizing society through the eyes of Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson added comedy to the show; Chuck Schymanski and Bob Norberg played the parts.

Early in February the band presented an hour program for the Wausau Technical Institute students. This performance, held in the Grand Theater, was attended by students as part of the semester break entertainment. The band was also invited to play for the Wisconsin State Future teachers of America convention.

Students Anticipated Tahitian Atmosphere

Far-away places captured the fancy of the Junior Class for their Prom. The decorations created a scene of lovely tropical palms and lush jungle vegetation. The mood was dreamy, warm, and — of course — very romantic.

Held on May 7, from 8:30 until 12:30 at the Youth Building in Marathon Park, the 1965 Prom had 'Tahiti' as its theme. Larry Woodbury's Orchestra provided music for the very memorable evening.

Climaxing the affair was the crowning of Queen Kathy Morris by her king and Junior Class President, Dave Ullrich. The couple reigned over the dance, accompanied by their court which was composed of Student Council officers and commissioners, class officers, and committee chairmen.

Girls spent the weeks beforehand discussing dresses, hair styles, and dates. The boys were quiet but they, too, felt the anticipation. Friday afternoon was a most difficult time for concentration on studies. Plans for parties before and after the Prom were discussed excitedly and everyone tried to find out about decorations which were to remain a secret.

The Post-Prom held at the Wausau Club following the dance, was sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. Music was played in the ballroom upstairs and pictures were taken of each couple as mementos of the wonderful evening. In the dining room, a buffet supper of chicken, roast beef, and a seafood dish was served at midnight, after which the couples danced "that last dance."

Saturday morning the prom committee journeyed back to the scene of the preceding night's festivities and sadly took down the decorations, recovering some for their scrapbooks and bulletin boards.

The decorations committee worked diligently to capture the atmosphere of the South Sea Island, Buddas and all!

JUNIOR PROM ROYALTY

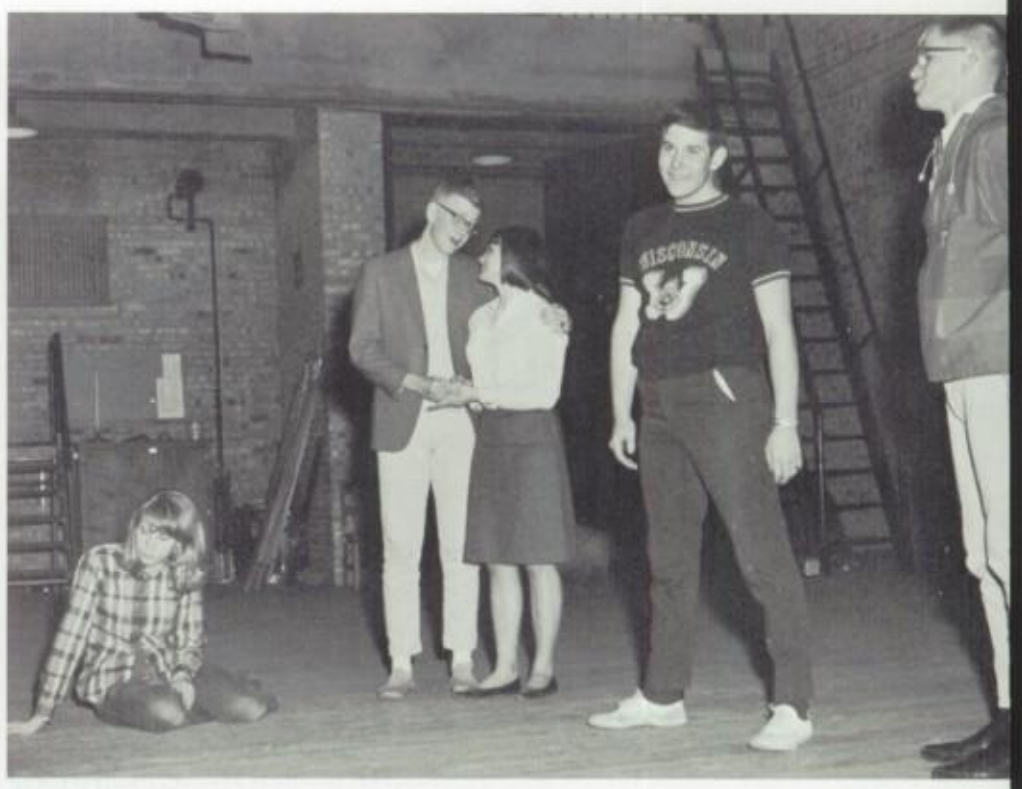
"Essie" and "Dick Dudgeon," portrayed by Dora Gorski and Bob Norberg, practiced their lines at rehearsal.



The principle members of the play cast: Dora Gorski, Jim Smit, Chris Beatty, Craig Reineking, and Chuck Schymanski attempted to capture the moods of various characters in "The Devil's Disciple."

The spring play was a melodrama put on by members of the sophomore, junior, and senior classes in May. For the first time in a long while, a comedy was exchanged for drama of a different vein. Members of the play cast worked long and hard, but managed to have a wonderful time while they were gaining valuable experience. Hisses and cheers accented the villianous or heroic efforts on the part of the characters.

W H S Contributed To The Year's Crazy Fads

No school year is complete without the invention of some new fads. Madras, textured stockings, "Beatle" haircuts, and shoulder strap bags were just a few that we discovered.

At the Bellamy Award dinner-dance, Phil Omi "wound up" to show Chris Beatty just exactly what he meant when he said, "Would you like to dance—California style?"

Councils Served Their Schools Admirably

The Student Council at Wausau Senior High was modeled after the representative form of government which has existed in the United States since 1781. Through the homeroom representatives elected each semester, the desires of the entire student body were expressed in the council. A student's suggestion at a homeroom meeting was voiced by the representative, discussed by the council, considered by the faculty and administration, and finally adopted or rejected, sometimes according to an all-school vote. Student Council meetings were held every two weeks during a class period which was designated through rotation.

The council's standing committees dealt in the five areas of pep, school affairs, social affairs, publicity, and finance. Special committees were also formed spontaneously to handle such projects as the candy sale and the Junior Red Cross drive. The Student Council was responsible for purchasing a school flag and an American flag for the assembly hall, for sponsoring hops after games, for choosing all-school assembly programs, and for providing scholarships. The council also initiated senior privileges this year and continued its annual Safety Week which stressed cautious driving. In addition, the Student Council adopted a foreign child — Ho Wing Sang from Hong Kong — by paying $120 each month to support him. With such an outstanding list of services, the council deserved the admiration of every Wausau High student.

The very capable second semester Student Council officers were: John Wiechmann, Vice-President; Gary Koerten, President; and Turi Stolen, Secretary.

Business Staff Provided Needed Funds

The business staff, headed by Mr. Dzubay, Sue Yonke, and Joann Olsen, planned the WAHISCAN advertising section.

Every seventh period room 207 came alive with the activities of the WAHISCAN staff. The typewriters' steady clicks and the editors' continuous chatter were heard unceasingly from August to May. During those ten months eighteen minds—determined to reach the All-American goal—created the yearbook for 1965. They took pictures, composed headlines, wrote copy, laid out pages, proofread articles, and ultimately met deadlines. They became discouraged when their copy had to be rewritten and when their lay-outs were rejected, but they redoubled their efforts every time. When the pressure of deadlines became an unbelievable strain, the staff continued to produce quality work without fail. Guided by a dedicated advisor, Mr. Rosenhauer, and a capable editor-in-chief, Nancy Tinkham, the staff hoped to put out an annual which would be unequaled in Wausau High's history.

The WAHISCAN business staff, headed by Mr. Dzubay, was concerned with selling space for advertisements and assembling the materials for the ad section. Prodded by the two managers—Sue Yonke and Joann Olsen—the advertisement solicitors succeeded in selling more pictorial ads this year than ever before. The business staff, too, found itself continuously under pressure to increase its volume of sales to help pay for the additional yearbook production costs. Not only was there a record-breaking total of 2230 yearbooks published this year, but there was also an increase in the size of the book. Besides these factors, a two-page colored picture and a quarter-bound cover added to rising costs and more headaches for the business staff. But, all in all, the activity was a profitable one for editorial and business staffs alike.

Skyrocket Staff Worked Hard To Inform

Throughout the years there has been a certain amount of rivalry between the SKYROCKET and the WAHISCAN staffs at WHS. But this year the WAHISCAN, due to forces beyond control, must salute the SKYROCKET staff and their advisor for a job well done in regard to their excellent coverage of such events as the Bellamy Award and Wausau Week. The student body was informed of all major activities and student accomplishments by a diligent and hard-working staff.

Conferring with Mrs. Scheurmann, the SKYROCKET advisor, were the head editors: Van Ornum, Carspecken, Cutting, and Maas.

Band Played Major Role At W H S

The Wausau High band, under the direction of Mr. Ronald Evenstad, was one of the most active organizations in school. Three weeks before school started band members were at Thom Field practicing for football game half-time shows. When the weather turned cold, the band rehearsed indoors and concentrated on the music for numerous concerts which were given throughout the school year. The first such concert was given at Christmas in conjunction with the orchestra. On March 1, the band performed at the second annual Student-Directors' Concert at which various members conducted the band. Among the remaining performances were the John Muir Concert, the Horace Mann Concert, the Spring Concert, and the Memorial Day Concert given on the courthouse lawn. The group also prepared for the April contest at the Band Festival held in Rhinelander. They were judged on prepared numbers, a sight reading number, and marching ability.

In addition to working as a group, band members excelled individually. Each musician was expected to give up one study hall per week for a private lesson and to prepare a solo with piano accompaniment. Many of the members spent hours practicing for the Solo-Ensemble Contest held April 3, in Stevens Point. The combinations that played for this contest included solos, duets, trios, quartets, sextets, and brass choirs.

The Wausau High pep band played spirited numbers at all home basketball games and pep assemblies.

Students Received New Appreciation

The Wausau Senior High School Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Riege, enriched the cultural lite of the student body and the entire community through its entertaining concerts. The first public performance of the year was the Christmas Concert, given on December 17, which was immediately followed by the annual Christmas Assembly with the choir. 1n addition to assemblies at the two local junior high schools, concerts were held in midwinter and spring. The year's programs were concluded with the commencement concert and the "Pop-Concert-On-the-Lawn", an annual event.

The orchestra, which has a membership of sixty musicians, also specialized in ensemble and solo performances. Advanced technical ability enabled the members to study a great variety of music, this year, including a Beethoven symphony, a Mozart concerto, Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess", and "Lecuona's Andalucia Suite."

hrough Vocal And Instrumental Music

The combined Glee Club was made up of two separate classes which met during the second and seventh periods. The group developed a fine repertoire, including an operetta, musical comedies, and contemporary songs. Music appreciation and taste discrimination were a few of the highlights stressed in these two classes. Vocal training and conducting experience were other endeavors which proved to be valuable as well as enjoyable. These were elective classes and of interest to many students.

The Choir profited from a challenging year of musical study under the direction of Mrs. Bischoff. Their first major performance was for the Bellamy Award Program in October. A hectic Christmas schedule included television broadcasts, programs for the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, performances at the bank, and an assembly program for the student body. Several vocal soloists and ensemble groups participated in the Annual Choir Festival at Rhinelander and contests at Stevens Point and Eau Claire.

Modern Music Masters, often called Tri-M, was an international organization which advanced the spirit of good music, furthered the reputation of school as a music center, and increased the students' musical knowledge. In order to become a member, one must have maintained a B average in music and at least a C average in academic subjects. Excellent character and good attitude toward teachers and fellow students were other important criteria for selection. Another musical organization, Musical Club, presented such programs as lessons in conducting, teaching elementary rhythms, and critically analyzing music of the 18th and 19th centuries. The study of innovations and innovators previous to the 20th century was also considered. Under the direction of Mr. Evenstad, both of these clubs were very successful.

Various literary clubs were also a part of school activities. The Senior Seminar was a group of studious, ambitious students who took time out from their regular classwork to read and discuss the great books of our time. These students met once a month under the direction of Miss Schadney and Mr. Furr to compare their opinions with those of their counterparts. Through these discussions, they gained a greater insight on the views of both American and foreign authors. The programs of the Book Club were very similar to those of Senior Seminar. The Book Club, however, was composed not only of seniors, but of all who were interested. Other club activities included a Christmas party, local speakers, and a variety of films.

Rotary And Quill-Scroll Honored Students

Each month four different WHS boys attended the weekly Rotary Club meetings. They were joined by two boys from Newman and two from Everest. The various programs included the following: District Governor Bonson spoke on the ideals of Rotary; the assistant city engineer explained the Grand Avenue project; Steve Weiner told of his experiences in Europe; and Jack Olson, former Lieutenant Governor of Wisconsin, spoke on the Wisconsin trade mission to Europe.

Quill and Scroll, an international society, honored students who possessed outstanding ability in the field of journalism. The qualifications necessary for admittance were: (1) a rank in the upper one-third of the junior or senior class, (2) superior achievement on a school publication staff, (3) a recommendation by the local advisor, and (4) the approval of the Society's Executive Secretary. All members received an honorary pin and the national magazine "Quill and Scroll."

Badger Boys' State and Badger Girls' State proved to be an exciting and busy experience for seven WHS students. Throughout the week, they attended lectures, party caucuses, political forums, and local, county and state meetings. The boys' staters were also required to attend one of the Schools of Instruction: Law, Peace Officers, Civil Service, Community Development, or Parliamentary Law. Both the boys and the girls were assigned to either the Federalist Party or the Nationalist Party. Each one also belonged to a specific city and county within the state. Elections were held first on the city level, secondly on the county level, and finally on the state level. David Marth was elected Governor at Badger Boys' State. He was the first Wausau boy to have received this high position.

Those students chosen to attend the '65 Boys' and Girls' States were: Robert Brodhead, Greg Finet, Dan LaCerte, Guy Reynolds, David Ullrich, Jamie Brose and Chris Beatty.

One of the greatest distinctions which could be awarded to a student was membership in the National Honor Society. Wausau's local chapter was established in 1964 through student-faculty effort. It was founded to give recognition to students who had maintained at least a 3.25 grade average and had shown leadership and character. The honorary society was restricted to members of the graduating class.

On April 25, a special program was held in the auditorium for the presentation of the NHS pins and certificates. A reception for the new members and their parents was held afterwards in the school cafeteria. The program climaxed the work and achievement of each honor student, and it served to re-emphasize the Wausau High tradition of excellence in scholarship.

The Boy and Girl Staters were: Rolfson, Arvold, Goodwin, Coleson, Schumacher, Marth, and Tinkham.

1964 state championship debaters, John Lang and Steve Weiner, planned their strategy for future tournaments.

During the season, Wausau Senior High School debaters won over 85% of their debates. First places were won in the Wisconsin Valley Invitational at Wisconsin Rapids, the Oconomowac Invitational at Oconomowac, and the official district meet of the Wisconsin High School Forensic Association at Stevens Point. The Wausau debaters upheld the WHS debate tradition by going to the state finals for the twentieth successive time. They were the defending state champions in that tournament and ranked fourth this year.

Sophomores were also very active in debate during the year, as forty of them took part in the tryouts. The official sophomore squad was selected on the basis of a series of extemporaneous talks on current topics.

Forensics offered those students who had a flair for speech, an opportunity to express themselves and to display their talents in several ways. Forensics (from the Latin word forum) pertains to public speaking, and takes the forms of original and non-original oratory, memorized declamation, play reading, interpretative reading of prose and of poetry, four minute speaking, extemporaneous speaking, and public address.

The first competition was the home contest here in Wausau. The two top contestants from each group were selected to go on to the valley, the district, and finally the state meet. Wausau's team did a commendable job this year, and sent many students to the state contest at Madison. Those who came home with A ratings were Pat Bliss, non-original oration; Ann Humphrey, extemporaneous speaking; and the play readers consisting of Dora Gorski, Roger Spiecher, Bob Norberg, Jim Smit, and Steve Weiner. The following students received B ratings: Jackie Fulmer, Elaine Etzkin, Linda Van Ornum, Sue DeMary, and John Roberts.

Advanced Math Club officers: Joann Olsen, Everett Goodwin, Sue Flaker, and Bill Arvold pondered over a difficult problem.

The Advanced Math Club, composed of fifty members plus two advisors, Mr. Luttrell and Miss Hedblom, met on the first Wednesday of each month. This year the club sponsored a school dance after the first basketball game, December 4. The purpose was to raise money for a scholarship fund founded by the club to benefit potential math majors. In the spring a visiting lecturer from the Mathematical Association of America spoke about the different fields of mathematics. At other meetings, students reworked problems from the Wisconsin State Mathematics Contest, listened to a lecture on computer machines now in operation, and observed a film dealing with advanced logarithms and the slide rule.

Miss Hedblom also advised the Basic Math Club which was formed for students who were presently enrolled in or had previously taken first year algebra or geometry. The monthly meetings included such topics as the slide rule, number bases, and brain teasers. The club officers were: Andrea Lister, President; John Dzubay, Vice-President; and Maxine Kalinoski, Secretary.

The Arts Provided Means Of Expression

The Drama Club, under the capable direction of Miss Stelmahoske, was concerned primarily with various aspects of the theatre. One meeting was spent with Robert Quinn, Director of Theatre at the Wausau Extension Center. He coached the club members on line reading and interpretation of parts. The Thespian group also had the privilege of viewing scenes from the Senior Class Play, "Teahouse of the August Moon", and hearing members of the forensics team — the play readers, the interpretive readers, and the orators. Besides attendiing plays put on by the college students at Stevens Point State University, the drama club encouraged participation in Wausau High plays, and many of its members were in the casts and on the committees.

With the large school enrollment and the steadily increasing interest in painting and sculpture, Wausau High students found it necessary to organize two art clubs, rather than only one as in previous years. The groups were advised by Miss Hoard and Mr. Reineman.

When students applied for admittance in the fall, they were required to submit sketches which were judged at the first meeting by all the club members. At later meetings members heard lectures given by Mrs. Newberry, a local artist, and Mr. Schoenberger from the Historical Society, who talked on various water color techniques. Billy Moy exhibited his collection of Chinese art which he inherited from his father, and it was displayed afterwards in the art wing corridor. The club also viewed a movie entitled "Paint an Abstraction." As a climax to the year's activities, the Art Club took a field trip to the Hermit Island Gallery and reviewed Dean Meeker's serigraphs.

The Art Club officers from both clubs were: (sitting) Tesch, Tessmer, Parsons, Rasmussen, (standing) Kranz, Filtz, Schiefelbein, Marcotte, O'Neil.

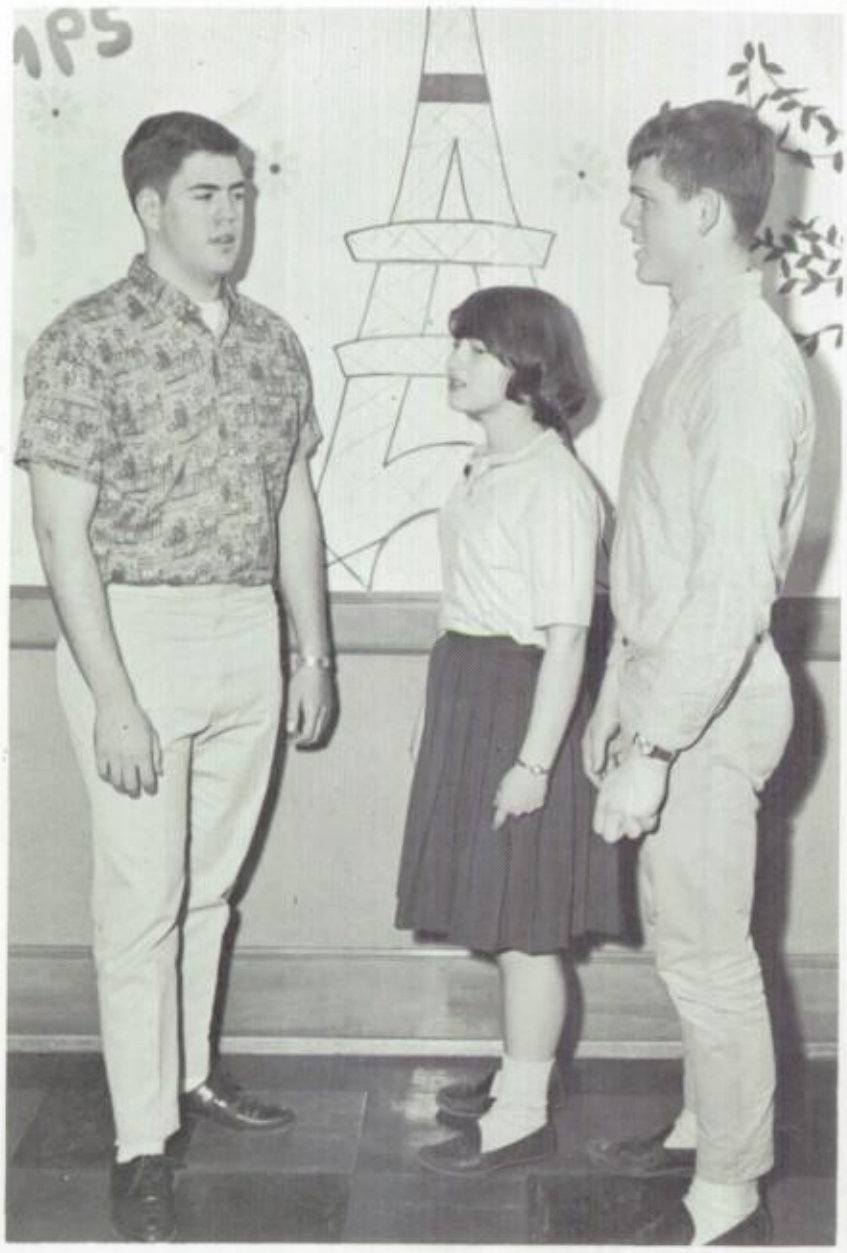
It wasn't exactly the Eiffel Tower, but it created the desired effect for the French Club officers: Lemke, vice-president; Colcord, secretary-treasurer; and Scott, president.



The purpose of the French Club was to encourage its members to learn more about France and the French people in addition to understanding the language. This year the club devoted its time to learning about the landmarks and architecture of France and French Quebec. A talk by the AFS exchange student, Aniag Coulouarn, and numerous slides helped the members to learn a great deal about France. The Club was also concerned with earning money for a scholarship donation.

The Spanish Club conducted activities to promote a better understanding of the Spanish-speaking people and their customs. At one meeting a senior member, Rod Nelson, gave a talk on his trip to Europe and showed slides of Spain. Other meetings featured film strips on South American countries and discussions of the traditions of Spanish-speaking people. The club officers were: Ken Peterson, president; Eva Scheffler, vice-president; and Marcia Kosmerchock, secretary-treasurer.

The first project of this year's Latin Club was to join the Junior Classical League, a national organization of the American Classical League. The purpose of the JCL was to encourage among young people an interest in and appreciation of the civilization, language, literature, and art of ancient Greece and Rome, and to give them some understanding of the debt which our own culture owes to classical antiquity. The club's most enthusiastic activity—the Latin Banquet—was held on April 24, 1965, in the Wausau High cafeteria.

The German Club offered its members a wide variety of programs. One of the most interesting was an explanation of the German school system given by Mr. Degenhardt Muller who came from Hannover, Germany, to work for a local firm. At the Christmas meeting members sang carols and presented skits depicting German holiday customs. A German Club band, organized by the members themselves, led the entire group in a dance session with polkas, schottisches, and waltzes. The highlight of the year was an authentically German banquet planned by the students.

The Junior and Senior Gregg Clubs were two of the business organizations at WHS this year. These clubs, each having a remarkably large membership, jointly sponsored a dance to raise enough money for a scholarship which would be presented to a student intending to further his education in the business field. At the club meetings speakers representing different occupations gave the members an insight into the future of American business. Mrs. LaCerte, Mr. Taylor's secretary, spoke to the group on secretarial work. An employee from the IBM company gave an interesting lecture on computer machines. Mrs. Schubert advised the Senior Gregg Club and Miss Rennhak, the Junior Gregg Club.

Local F.T.A. Sponsored State Convention

The George Washington Carver Chapter of the Future Teachers of America completed a very busy year at Senior High. Besides carrying on their traditionally active schedule of meetings and other events, the WHS club was in fact the "number one" F.T.A. club in the state, since they hosted the 1965 annual state F.T.A. convention on Saturday, March 27. The honor of hosting this convention was granted to the club when Char Maas, class of '65, was elected state F.T.A. president at the 1964 convention at the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee Campus. Miss Jo Ellen Marsh, adviser of the local club, then automatically became state adviser. Five hundred future teachers and their advisers from all over the state of Wisconsin attended the convention, the theme of which was "The Unknown Teacher." Dr. Wilda F. Faust, National Director of F.T.A. from the National Education Association in Washington, D. C., flew to Wausau for the express purpose of addressing the group. Practically every member of the local club had some part in planning the state convention.

The officers of the local club this year were: President, Gary Baumann; Vice-President, Char Maas; Secretary, Sue Plisch; Treasurer, Marsha Yonke; and Historian, Eileen Hintz. Some of the events in which this active club participated were: recognition of November 8-11 as National Education Week, presentation of the skit "Cathy's Choice" on the Jaycee Underline Program, and acknowledgment of April as Teaching Career Month. The club also sponsored an annual banquet which recognized outstanding teachers in the Wausau school system. A presentation of a dramatic reading, "The Unknown Teacher," was given at this banquet as well as at the final meeting.

Dr. Wilda F. Faust, National Director of F.T.A. from the National Education Association in Washington, D. C., was the main speaker at the State F.T.A. convention held at WHS.

Ian Ninnemann, an F.T.A. member, directed two delegates to the auditorium for the opening session of the state convention.

Broader Concepts Of Science Fields Wer

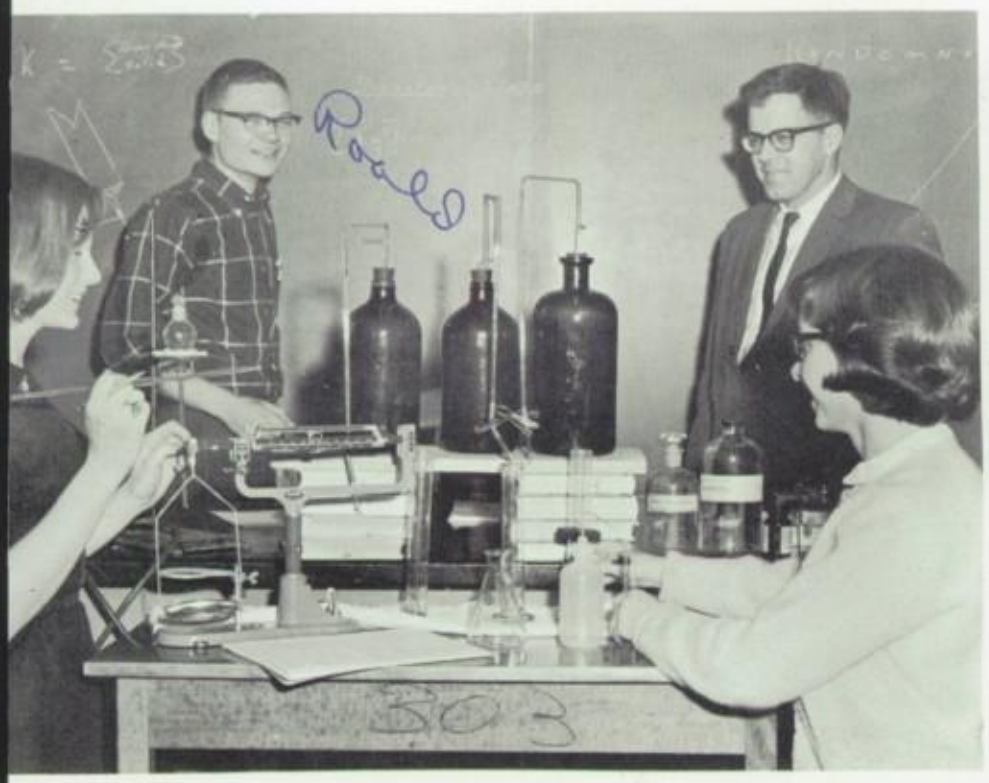
Looking at the skies over Wausau were Astronomy Club officers Doug Sturgeon, Bruce Maaser, and Bill Rust.

The Biology Club was organized primarily to give those students interested in biology a broader concept of the field. This was accomplished through various discussions, dissections, movies, and field trips. Each month the program for the meeting was prepared by a different committee. These committees covered such varied topics as bioluminescence, the anatomy of a fox, and the identification of area birds.

Members of the Astronomy Club took an active interest in the universe. Every Thursday night members of this club had an opportunity to view the heavens. For this purpose, a telescope was set up on top of the new building. Mr. Harkness and Mr. Dzubay, the club advisors, lectured on various phases of astronomy including the positions of stars and planets and the optical principles of telescopes.

Lectures, demonstrations, and experiments planned by the students filled the program agenda for the Chemistry Club. A special project—the Twelfth Annual Carmel Apple Sale at which time 1800 apples were sold in thirty minutes—proved to be extremely successful. The money earned from the sale was contributed to the school's scholarship fund. The Chemistry Club concluded the year with a picnic and a vigorous baseball game.

The Conservation Club provided excellent opportunities for boys interested in this increasingly important field. Club meetings were devoted to educational films and lectures on current conservation problems. Members of the Conservation Club performed a valuable service for the school by supplying the labor for much of the work completed at the school forest during the year. They were involved in a variety of tasks such as thinning and pruning pine plantations, improving the club house, and cutting Christmas trees.



Budding scientific scholars — Chris Beatty, Roald Rolfson, and Sue Ninnemann — dabbled in an experiment as Mr. Hagemann, a chemistry teacher, pointed out their numerous mistakes.

Finding out more about the world we live in was the aim of the International Club. This year, because of the size of the organization, it was impossible to have a variety of programs and topic considerations. Therefore, the emphasis was placed on a particular area of study — the world as seen through the eyes of young people. Anaig Coulouarn, the foreign exchange student from France, presented an excellent lecture accompanied by slides. Anaig explained the lives of French young people including family life, social habits, and school activities. Steve Weiner, A.F.S. exchange student, gave a similar lecture on his summer in Italy.

In three hundred fifty B.C., Aristotle was discussing the problems of the world with his students at the Lyceum in Athens. Similarly, Wausau High students had a chance to ponder current problems at Lyceum meetings held every other Saturday evening in the faculty dining room. Under the able leadership of Mr. Stade and Mr. Bennett, subjects like human rights, liberalism vs. conservatism, existensialism, American foreign policy, and many others were discussed.

The Lyceum was designed for people who liked to think and discuss. This did not mean that those who did not like to think or discuss did not come; but those who did not think when they came were sure to be thinking when they left! The rewards of attendance were the opportunities for each to explain and defend his opinion. The informal and undisciplined atmosphere was usually conducive to lively discussion and debate of the chosen topic of the evening.

Clubs Took Interest in Foreign Affairs

Discussing the current topic of civil rights at an evening Lyceum meeting were Mary Schumacher, Ann Humphrey, Marcia Kosmerchock, Jean Sleeter, Andrea Lister, John Roberts, Jim Wicke, and Roger Coleson.

Miss Bonvincin, the only woman ski team coach in the state, was the advisor of the Ski Club. Movies of ski areas and races were shown regularly, including movies of ski meets in which the Wausau team participated. Forms and information concerning Rib Mountain ski meets, high school meets, and C.U.S.S.A. races were also given out regularly. Tom Mathwick gave a demonstration of the use of various types of ski equipment at one of the meetings. Two ski trips were planned this year for Mt. Telemark and Indianhead, but unfortunately neither one materialized. Four season passes for Rib Mountain were made available for club members, so that skiers were permitted free use of the T-bars and tows for an entire day by merely presenting their Ski Club membership cards at the ticket booth. The club officers were: Tom Mathwick, president; Bill Arvold vice-president: Debby Schranz, secretary: and Jim Kurth, treasurer.

For eighteen years Wausau High curlers have received the excellent advice and enthusiastic support of their coach, Mr. Harry Johnson, who organized the school's first Curling Club. During this eighteen year period, the club has grown from a very small group in 1947 to a total of forty-eight boys in 1965. Curling as a state-wide sport has also expanded, with over twenty Wisconsin high school curling clubs now in competition.

This year Wausau Curlers met Waupaca, Medford, Stevens Point, and Eau Claire in bonspiel competition. After three months of practice the season was climaxed by the sectional play-offs and the state bonspiel in Poynette. Wausau's team placed first in the sectionals but was defeated at the state tournament. Curling Club officers were: Craig Karr, President; Steve Lonsdorf, Vice-President; and Stu Rosemurgy, Secretary-Treasurer. Mr. Bennett contributed his fine curling talent to help the team develop their ability.

Ski Club officers: Bill Arvold, Tom Mathwick, Jim Kurth, and Debby Schranz inspected equipment at sporting goods store.

Officers of the newly organized Y-Teen Club: Anderson, Ninneman, and Westgate enjoyed the model home.

Although Y-Teens have long been active in Wausau, this was the first year that they formed a club which met during the school activity period. The Y-Teen Club is an international organization of the Young Women's Christian Association. Local members participated in the service projects, group discussions on various social issues, college and vocational preparatory programs, and other YWCA activities.

The objectives of the Future Nurse's Club was to guide the students interested in nursing in their selection of a school and a particular nursing profession. Since the number of applicants was so large this year, two groups - Junior and Senior - were formed. Earning money for a scholarship, which was presented to a deserving graduate member of the club, proved to be the group's goal throughout the year. Other activities included sending representatives to various conventions and sponsoring a school dance.

This year, because of the large number of applicants, it was necessary that two club sections offer information to today's "Modern Miss." Again the topic selected for the year was "The Modern Theory of Attractiveness." The theme was fulfilled through lectures given by six outside speakers who presented demonstrations in the areas of posture and poise, cosmetology, hair-grooming, social and personal etiquette, as well as business etiquette. Since this was one of the largest clubs in school, it indicated that many girls were interested in their personal appearance.

This year's Girl's Athletic Association, with 456 members, was the largest it had been for several years. Members of the community as well as Senior High students presented interesting demonstrations at the first Wednesday meetings. Mr. Lowell Johnson, along with Chuck Fox, Mike Ryan, and Ed Marcott, gave an excellent exhibition on the trampoline. The two G.A.A. champion volleyball teams fought to a tie as the bell rang, leaving the champs exhausted and the second place team pleased with its efforts. At another meeting two individuals from the local bowmans' group, Mr. Huenerfuss and Mr. Hammerly, showed G.A.A. members several bows and arrow tips used in hunting, as well as in tournament play. At the last meeting, awards were presented to the individual and team champions, and surprise gifts were given to Miss Becker, head advisor, and Miss Tank and Mrs. Meurett, associate advisors.

The Pep Club was an organization made up of students who desired to increase and encourage school spirit in Wausau Senior High. The group sat in a special section at the basketball and football games to form a cheering unit and to promote enthusiasm for the team. The club also sponsored many events such as homecoming and "T-day." Individual members organized skits for the Wausau Eve program and presented halftime entertainment at the football games, including a pom-pom routine. Talented Pep Club artists made colorful posters to advertise these events, and more clever members formulated announcements to win laughs as well as support. "T-day" was something new this year. The Pep Club tried to create the right mood for the basketball tournaments with a rousing pep assembly and an introduction to the players and the coach. The club accomplished many things this year, but, most important, it promoted school spirit and sportsmanship.

Displaying the equipment used in their favorite sports were G.A.A. officers: Mason, Bangle, Jackson, Rakow, and Hennig.

Every first Wednesday of the month, when the 11:55 bell rang, Archery Club members were seen scurrying down the halls with their sack lunches and bows in hand. They left promptly at noon for the Rib Mountain Archery Club where they practiced their skills and competed against one another. The club, advised by Mr. Schumacher, also held a competitive shoot with the Merrill High School.

The Camera Club under the direction of Mr. Schawl, spent the majority of its meetings discussing and criticizing the work of its members. Individual amateur photographers took their own snapshots and developed them themselves. At one club meeting, Mr. Toburen, a professional photographer from the city, spoke about lighting effects and time exposures.

The purpose of the Future Farmers of America organization was to encourage high school agricultural students to become more actively interested in farming and related fields. Rural leadership was developed through officer training workshops, speech contests, and special committee projects. Club members participated in the Wisconsin Valley Fair which they found to be of educational as well as recreational value. The group's capable advisor was Mr. Hylkema.

The primary purpose of the Junior Dairymen's Association was to improve dairy herds in the surrounding area. To accomplish this, members of the organization tested milk, improved dairy feeding, exhibited their own animals at the county fair, and participated in dairy cattle selection shows. The highlights of the club's yearly activities were the state Junior Dairymen's convention and the annual dairy show. Directing this year's club were Donald Schult, President; Dave Felch, Vice-President; and Sue Kamholz, Secretary.

Future Farmers of America officers: Brueggeman, Grunenwald, Hudson, Felch, Barttelt, and Schult planned club activities.

The Stage Crew, under the direction of Mr. Gjetson, provided valuable technical help for both in-school and out-of-school activities. The crew, composed of sophomore, junior, and senior boys, had the responsibility of constructing stage settings, providing lighting effects, operating the P.A. and recording systems, and handling curtains and back drops. Among the programs for which the Stage Crew assisted were the Spring and Senior Class plays, the Christmas programs, the Tophatters show, and the annual Stunt Night Program.

Another important service organization was the Projectionist Club. The members - Senior High boys - were trained in operating projectors and recorders along with other audio-visual equipment. They gave their services to the school by operating machines during their free hours in the various classrooms, assisting the clubs during the activities period, and running movies in the auditorium during the noon hours. Under the direction of Mr. Stade, these boys fulfilled their duties admirably.

Custodians Kept WHS in Working Order

ABOVE: The lady custodians, who helped clean the classrooms and hallways at Wausau High, swept 6,000 square feet of floor space every day. During vacation their duties included washing, waxing, and polishing. These hard workers were: (back row) Mrs. Radtke, Mrs. Roeder, Mrs. Sneeden, Mrs. Wienke, (front row) Mrs. Borchardt, Mrs. Wekwert, and Mrs. Borski.

RIGHT: Wausau High's team of men custodians — Kickbusch, Heisler, Genrich, Ramthun, Ventzke, and Plischke — were kept busy from the time they raised the flag in the morning until they took it down at dusk. They shoveled the sidewalks, cut the grass, and repaired windows, lockers, and desks.

BELOW: The cafeteria staff began work at eight o'clock in the morning and finished in the mid-afternoon after cleaning the kitchen and partially preparing the next day's meal. The staff, which served between 475 and 525 students daily, included: (Back row) Mrs. Camps, Mrs. Sours, Mrs. Schubring, (front row) Mrs. Trempe, Mrs. Krueger, Mrs. Jaecks, and Mrs. Trittin, head chef. Mrs. Camps also served as an office secretary toward the end of the second semester.

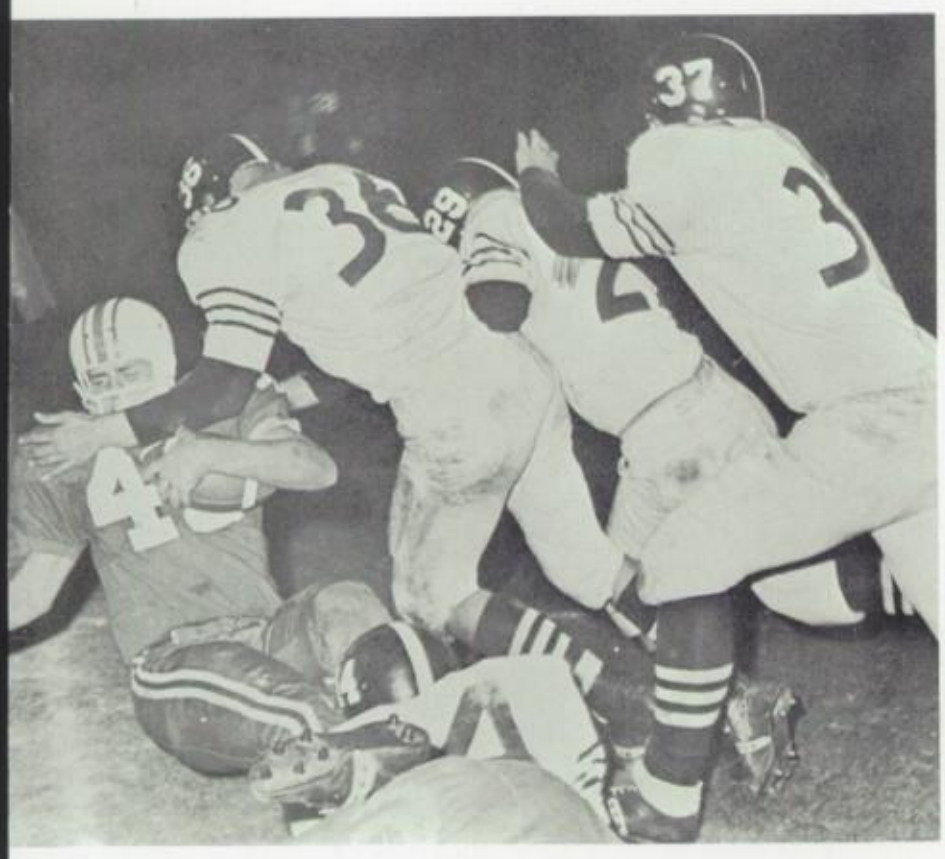
Jacks Shared 3-Way Tie For Big River

Wausau Senior High football coaches did an excellent job teaching as well as inspiring the 1964 squad. The coaches were: Mr. Johnson, Mr. Thomas, Mr. Brockmeyer, Mr. Kampfer, and Mr. Gettrust (absent from the picture.)

Confronting the 1964 "Fighting Lumberjacks" was the problem of replacing ten regulars who played in practically every game of the 1963 season. Almost all of the playing strength came from the returning reserves and some of the promising Junior Varsity. As a team Wausau played above any expectations of the coaching staff — defeating Marinette, Stevens Point, La Crosse Logan, Eau Claire North, and receiving the "number one" rating in Wisconsin for the 13th consecutive week.

In the fifth game, however, the chain of good fortune broke. The keyed-up "Old Abes" of Eau Claire threw the unbeaten Lumberjacks to the ground and trampled them for a 20-0 loss. This sudden turn of events roused the "Jacks", and they bounced back with victories over Menomonie, La Crosse Central, and Chippewa Falls. The only other loss was to Superior Central in a non-conference game.

The conclusion of the 1964 season brought many highlights. Seven victories were compiled to capture the Big Rivers Football Championship again for the Wausau Lumberjacks. They led the conference in offense by averaging 334 yards per game, and by scoring 28.8 points a game. Wausau also led the conference in total defense by holding its opponents to only 139 yards per game. There were only 8.8 points per game scored against the Lumberjacks. The season was concluded with Jim Schultz, Craig Karr, and Paul Evans being elected to the first string of the "Big Rivers Conference Team". Each man on the 1964 football team deserves hearty congratulations.



During a crucial Big Rivers Conference game, three La Crosse Central defenders seemed to be standing in line to get a shot at Wausau's Terry Weinberger. Wausau blanked Central 28-0 to move into a three-way tie for the conference lead.

With outstretched arms, Mark Staples, a junior, tried desperately for a pass thrown by quarterback Dave Marth in the third quarter of conference action against Menomonee. The Jacks smashed the Maroons by a lopsided score of 47-14.

Lumberjacks Overpowered Menomonee

The Jacks turned in a fine offensive performance against the Menomonee Indians. Above, Lynn (Fritz) Buss smashed through the defensive line, gracefully side-stepped a linebacker, and came up with a substantial gain and a first-down.

Wausau's Jerry McCabe, number 20, gave a Menomonee halfback a jolt when he threw that big left shoulder into him. This is just one of the reasons why Wausau's defensive unit was rated number one in the Big Rivers Conference in 1964.

Getting excellent protection from the line, Ron Reede (number 66) broke through the Eau Claire North defensive unit for a touchdown in the third quarter of the game against the Old Abes. Wausau shut out North by an overwhelming score of 40-0.

Coach Gene Thomas had a few words for defensive back Jack Erdman after a pass got by him in the La Crosse Central game.

Despite the dark look of a record of 1 win and 5 losses, the "B" gridsters fought hard and made their opponents work for every inch of ground gained. Wausau was handicapped by the fact that there were no returning starters on this year's squad.

Starting out the season, the Junior Varsity lost to Rhinelander 6-0 in one of the hardest fought battles of the 1964 season. They were again defeated by Wisconsin Rapids 31-6, Marinette 21-12, and Eau Claire North 34-12, before registering their first victory. Memorial of Eau Claire was the recipient of Wausau's fury as the Junior Jacks unleased their energy and whipped the Abes 27-17. Coach Ross Gettrust deserves a lot of credit for a job well done with the J.V.

Wausau's harrier Mike Tranetzki attempted to pull into first place during the Wausau Invitational 2.2 mile race. The meet took place at the American Legion Golf Course.

The 1964 cross country season began with only one returning letterman, Mike Tranetzki. Despite this dark outlook, the squad progressed rapidly and finished the season by defeating twenty-four teams and losing to only thirteen. In its meets the team gained three victories, one second place, and one third place. Wausau came in fourth in the sectional meet and therefore did not qualify for the state cross country meet.

A pair of talented seniors paced the Wausau team. Everett Goodwin placed first or second in four meets, and Mike Tranetzki placed first in two other meets. They were assisted by four hard-working juniors who moved up from the "B" Team; they were Tom Tranetzki, Dave Ullrich, Dave Lonsdorf, and Lon Waldinger. Newcomers Steve Lonsdorf and Bernie Schmidt also developed rapidly and gave added strength to the harriers.

The junior varsity squad did a commendable job. They gained three victories and placed third in the other three meets in which they competed. They defeated a total of sixteen teams and lost to only six.

To A Successful Cross Country Season

For Wausau's thinclads the annual Wausau Invitational was the climax of the season. They achieved only a fourth place standing while Antigo took top honors in the meet. Above are just a few of the boys who represented ten schools throughout Wisconsin.

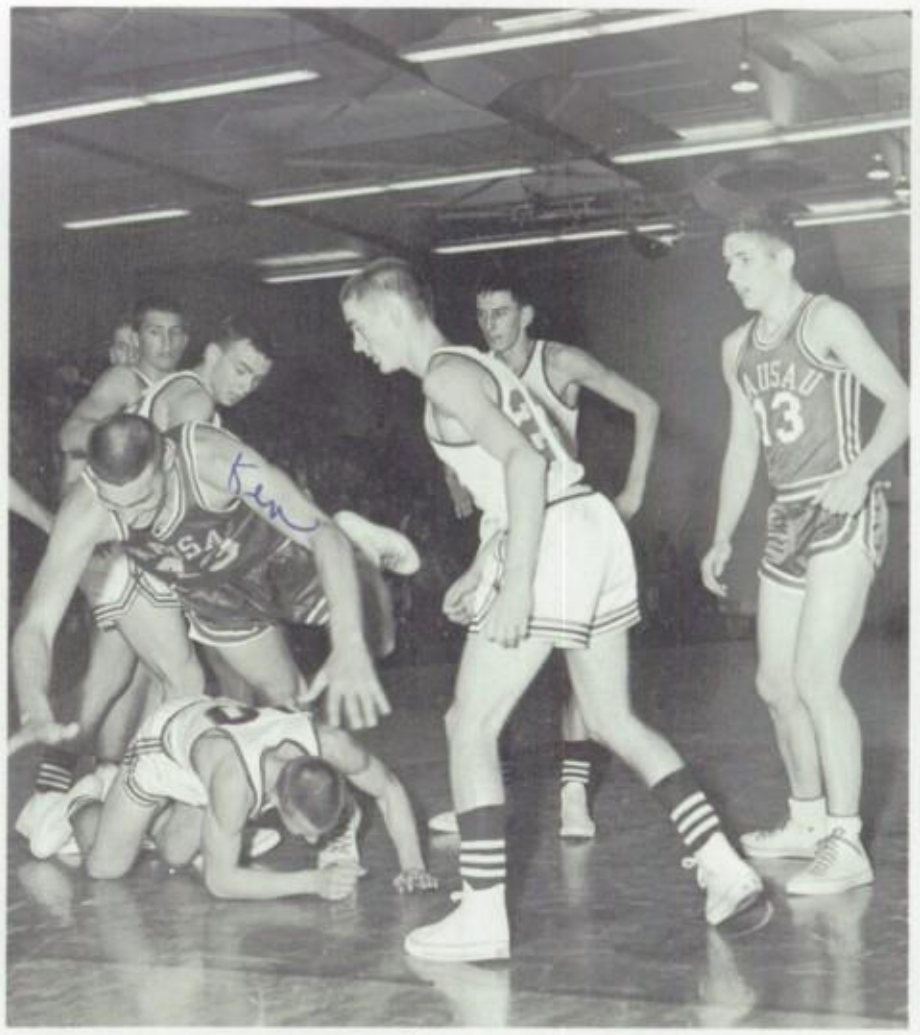
Wausau's "B" squad gave their all to equal the varsity's record. Eric Wendorf tried desperately to close the narrowing gap on the home stretch at the Legion Golf Course. The squad placed third in the Wausau Invitational "B" division meet.



Sacrifice, enthusiasm, and desire to win characterized the Wausau basketball team this year. Above, Ken Hudson (43) dived after the ball as Pete Krolikowski (13) looked on. Wausau trounced Menominee 82-39 in Big Rivers Conference action.

Memorial For Second In Big Rivers Race

In spite of being upset by Rhinelander in tournament play, the 1964-65 basketball team enjoyed a successful season. The Jacks compiled an over-all mark of 13-6 and a conference record of 9-3. Climaxing the season was a 72-70 victory over Eau Claire Memorial, which had not been beaten previously, and a 62-56 win over the valley champs Stevens Point. Losses were to Eau Claire Memorial, La Crosse Logan, Point, La Crosse Central, and Rapids; but it is interesting to note that every team that defeated Wausau also lost to Wausau.

Jack Goetsch, Clark Oleson, and Jack Erdman made up the agile, aggressive, and sharpshooting front line. Oleson was the team's second highest scorer with 218 points: Erdman was next with 191 points, and Goetsch collected 176. Baumann was the team's high scorer as well as the leading scorer in the Big Rivers Conference with 335 points. Sharing the other guard position were Marth and Ullrich who were aggressive defensively. Fire-cracker Ken Hudson also played well under pressure.

A new Wausau record was set against Menominee when 102 points were scored. Wausau finished second in the Big Rivers race and had the best offensive average in the league (74.4).The effort of the team and the enthusiasm of the students were all a credit to Wausau's new basketball coach Ken Anderson.

Gary Baumann swished one of his many jump shots that made him high scorer in the crucial Eau Claire Memorial game. The Jacks defeated the conference champs 72-70.

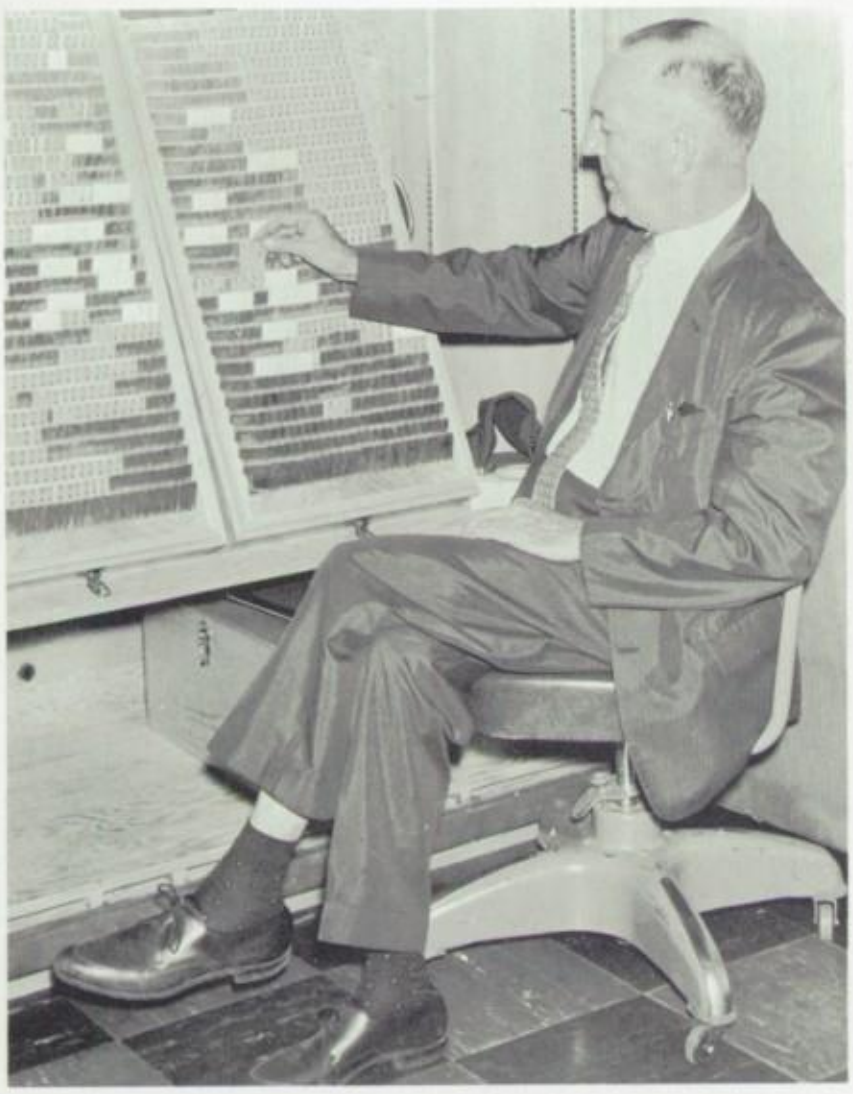
eason In The History Of Wausau High



The 1964-65 Junior Varsity team proved to be one of the best in the history of Wausau High. The season threw many challenges their way, and they met them squarely as their record-breaking total of 18 wins and 0 losses shows. 1,260 points were scored by the squad to set a new record at Senior High, and against the Menominee Indians 100 points were scored to establish another record. Besides these achievements the team collected an average of 72 points a game to set one more record.

The high point of their season was the game with the Rapids team where the Jacks outscored them 58-54. Like most champion teams, Wausau displayed good balanced scoring for the season with five boys hitting the coveted 100 mark. High scorer was Terry Ahrens with 205 points followed by Ken Roeder with 178, Shelly Geiger with 153, Mike Semrau with 142, Jim Treu with 127, and Pat Reed with 113 points.

Although Coach Dix's team swept most opposition up quite easily, they did have some close games winning five by ten points or less. This "B" squad carries many of the hopes of Head Coach Ken Anderson for the coming year. With players like Treu, Geiger, Semrau, Ahrens, Roeder, and Reed returning, the future looks very bright.

Mr. Keeler has been the Wausau High ticket manager for all athletic activities during the past two years. Left, he arranged the reserved seats ticket chart.

The wild enthusiasm that followed the Wausau Lumberjacks throughout the year showed on the faces of Mike Peters and Ken Hudson during the Eau Claire Memorial game. Caught up in the tension of the moment were coaches Anderson and Dix.

Wausau Skiers Placed 2nd In State Meet

SEASON SUMMARY

Wausau Invitational — 1st

St. Croix Falls Dual Meet — 2nd

Rhinelander Invitational — 3rd

Pine Mountain Regional — 2nd

Wisconsin State Meet — 2nd

The only word for the 1964-65 ski team is sensational. Six times Wausau High has captured first place in the Wisconsin State Ski Meet, but this year they finished second to a very talented Rhinelander squad. Pacing the Lumberjacks was their captain Chuck Fox who once again represented Wausau in the USSA National Junior Alpine Meet at Bend, Oregon. Fox knew what to expect this time, having competed at Squaw Valley, California, a year ago. Also adding depth to the squad were Bob Flannery, Guy Reynolds, Bill Arvold, Doug Trembath, and Paul Wergin.

Emphasis on physical fitness and many hours of practice allowed this team to take second in the State Ski Meet. Deserving much credit for this success is Coach Bonvincin who has been the team's head coach for twelve years. She has sacrificed her time and has developed Wausau Senior High skiers into top-notch competitors on both the state and national levels.

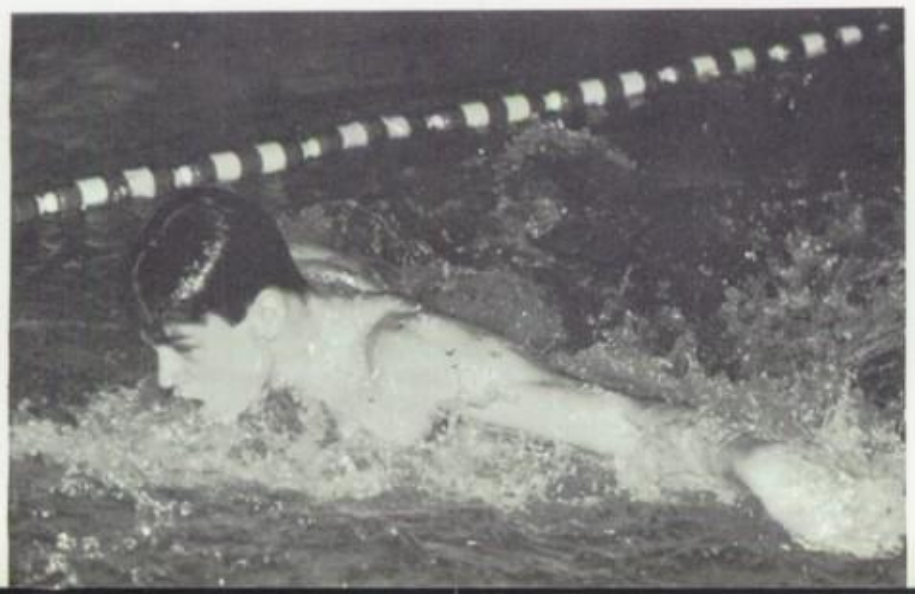
Swimmers Posted 7-2 Record For 1964-65

Wausau's swimming team, under the excellent coaching of Duane Miller, outpracticed, outdived, and outswam practically every opponent. The Jacks completely dominated Eau Claire Memorial, handing them two defeats (61-34 and 61-26). They then took Stevens Point twice (61-34 and 59-36) before humbling Eau Claire North twice (77-14 and 86-8). Menasha was next to suffer, losing to Wausau by the score of 80-14. The only two meets Wausau lost were to Rhinelander (82-13 and 73-22).

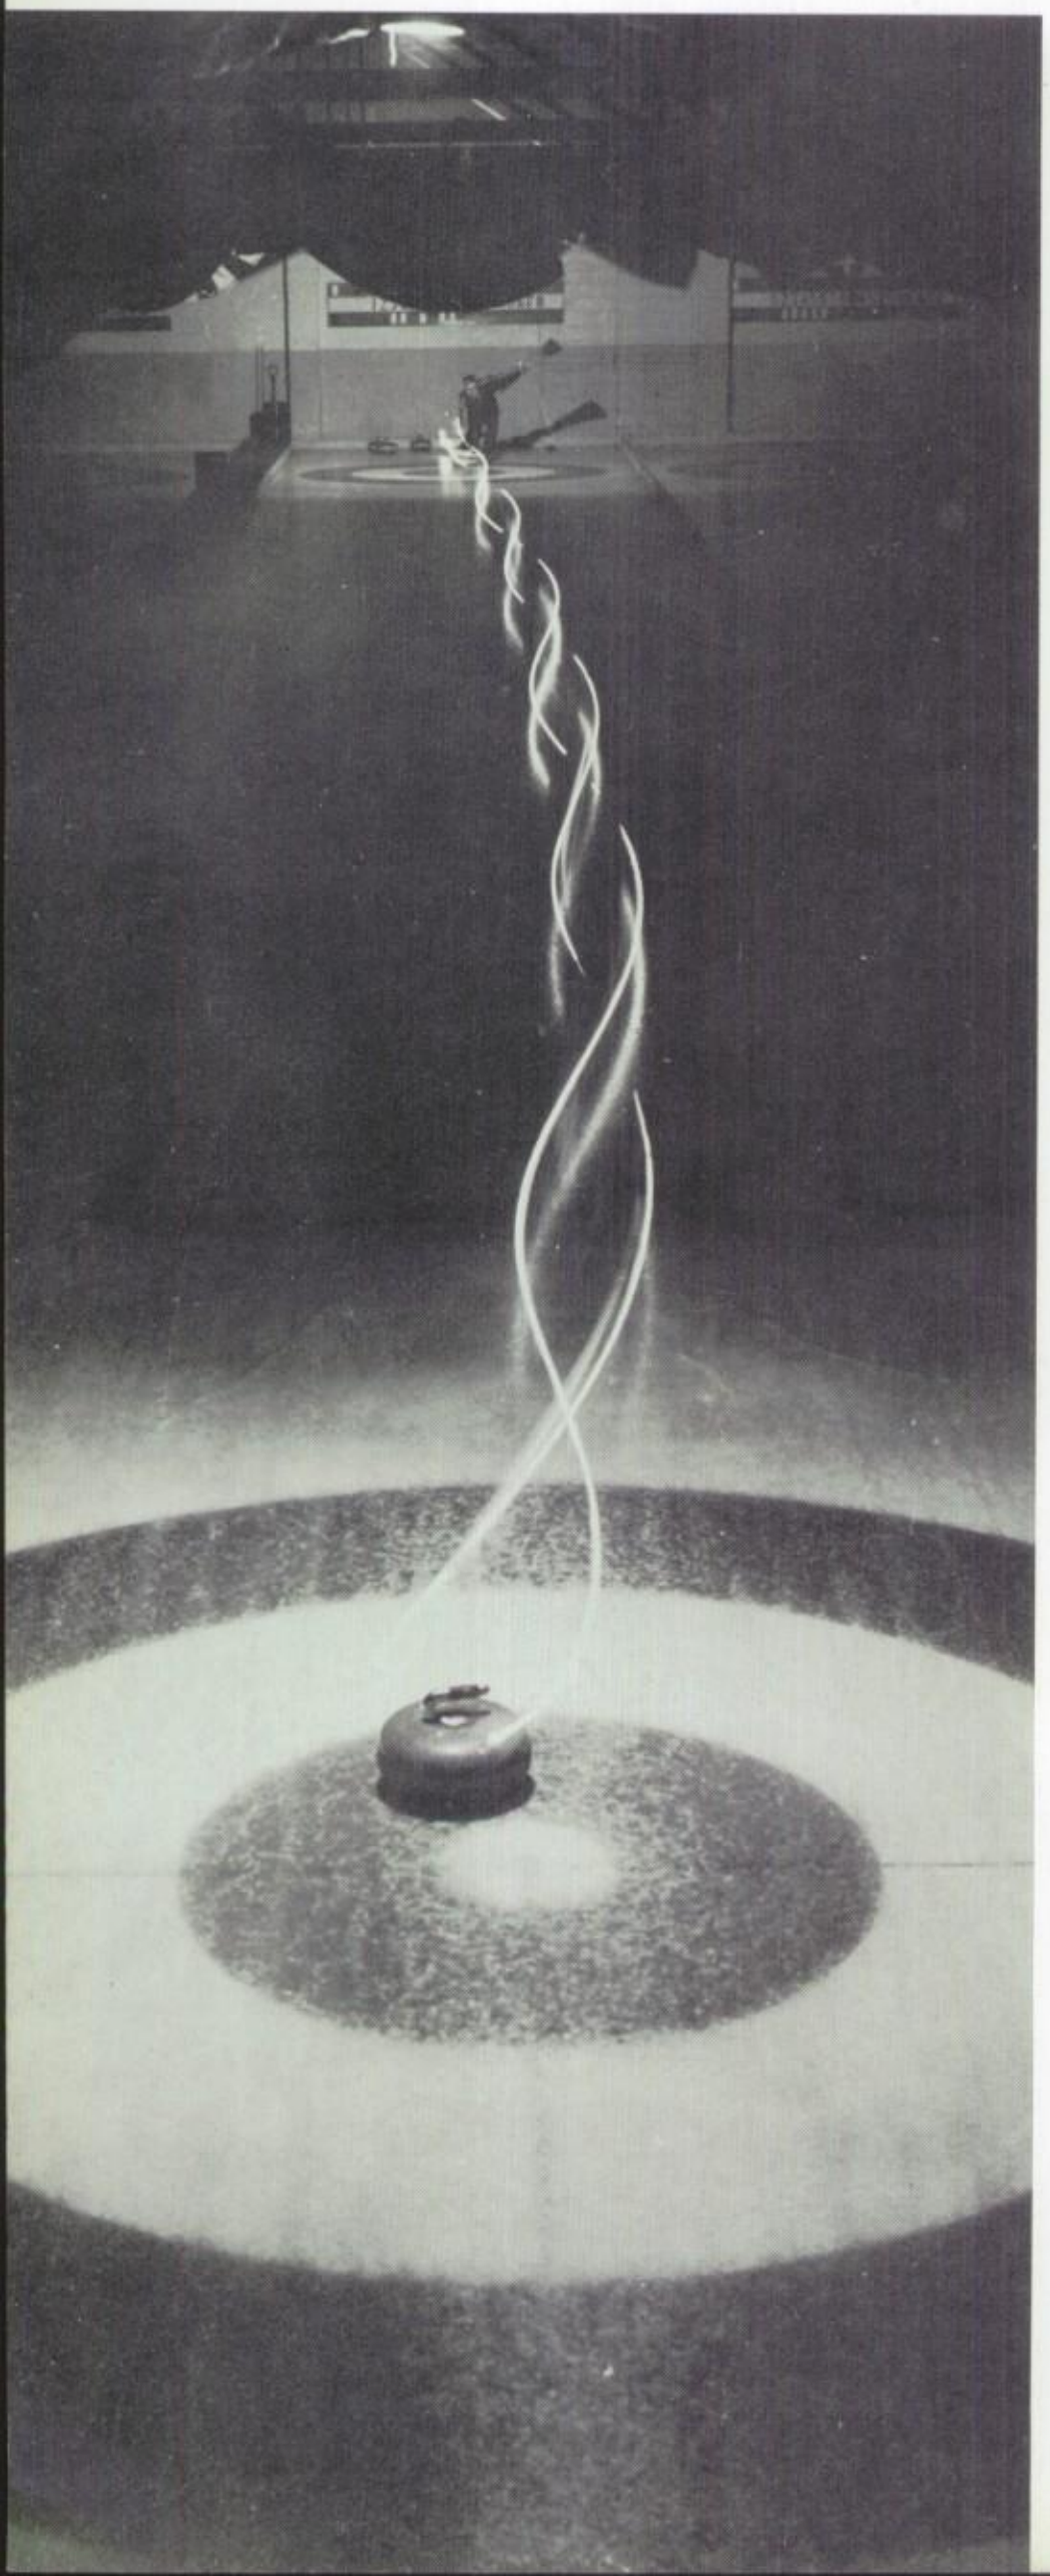
In the course of the season seven new records were established by W.H.S. swimmers. Leading the team were Rick Scott, who set records in the 100 and 200-yard freestyle; Doug Sturgeon, who broke the record book in the 50-yard freestyle event: Paul Cabelka, who set new records in the 400-yard freestyle and 200-yard medley.

Howie Lewis set a new record for the 100-yard butterfly race during Wausau's 80-14 victory over the Menasha swimmers.



Wausau swimmer Eddie Marcott displayed his record-breaking diving style. Marcott scored a total of 231 in diving events to break the previous record of 229.9 held by Bailey.

Lonsdorf Rink Won 4th in State Finals



Jack Bliss and Steve Lonsdorf swept while Scott Buechler and Dan LaCerte watched the action during the finals of the third event in the Wausau Bonspiel. The LaCerte rink won the game and the event.

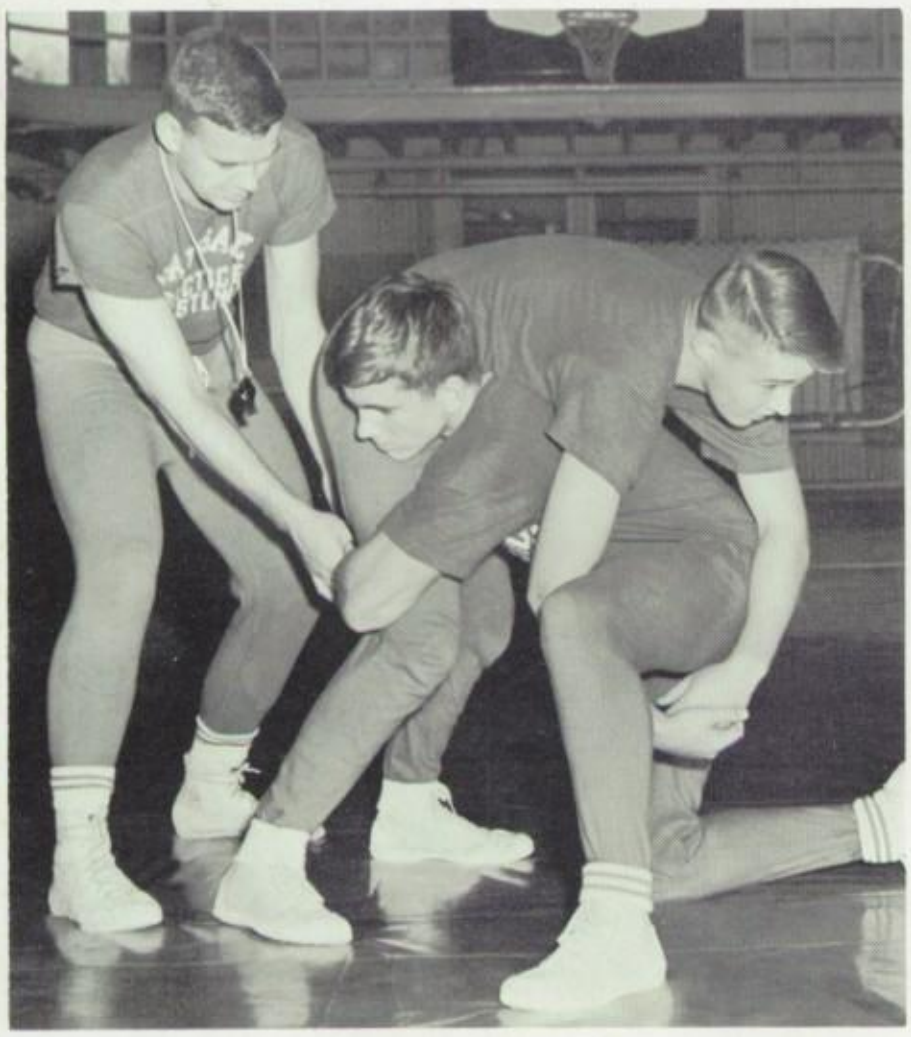
LEFT: A twisting stone thrown by an unidentified Wausau curler was caught with striking time-lapse photography.

The Wausau Curling Team skipped by Steve Lonsdorf ended the season by winning fourth place in the state bonspiel at Poynette. The rink included Pete Hessert, Bill Edwards, Dan LaCerte, and alternate Craig Karr. During the course of the season Wausau curlers participated in four bonspiels, winning first or second in an event seven times. In the Wausau Bonspiel, the LaCerte and Lonsdorf rinks took first and second respectively in the third event.

In the Intramural League, the Craig Karr rink won first place, while the Dave Rusch rink won the lead man's bonspiel. Steve Lonsdorf was selected by the curling team to be the third recipient of the Alan Wirt Memorial Award for being the most outstanding curler on the team.

1964-65 Wrestlers Faced Tough Schedule

Fred Aschbrenner sprawled to prevent a takedown as a Rhinelander wrestler attempted the double leg dive technique.



Coach Ross Gettrust taught Tom Jehn the double leg dive as teammate John Bernick served as the opposing wrestler.

"A year of rebuilding" was how Coach Ross Gettrust summed up the 1964-65 wrestling season. With only one returning letterman, the team had to start from scratch. Wausau wrestlers ended with a 2-3-1 conference record. In the Big Rivers Conference meets Wausau had a first, two seconds, and a fourth. This gave the team a sixth place rating in the Big Rivers Conference.

After the quarter finals of the regionals only three wrestlers remained. These were Clarence Felch who was voted the most valuable wrestler by the team, Bob Quaderer with third place, and Jim Loos with fourth place. They were defeated in the state semi-finals.

BACK ROW: Arps, Mau, Brown, Binkowski, J. Euler, Hackey, Bliese, Yunk, B. Quaderer, Rhyner, Helmke, Kettunen, Rodewald.

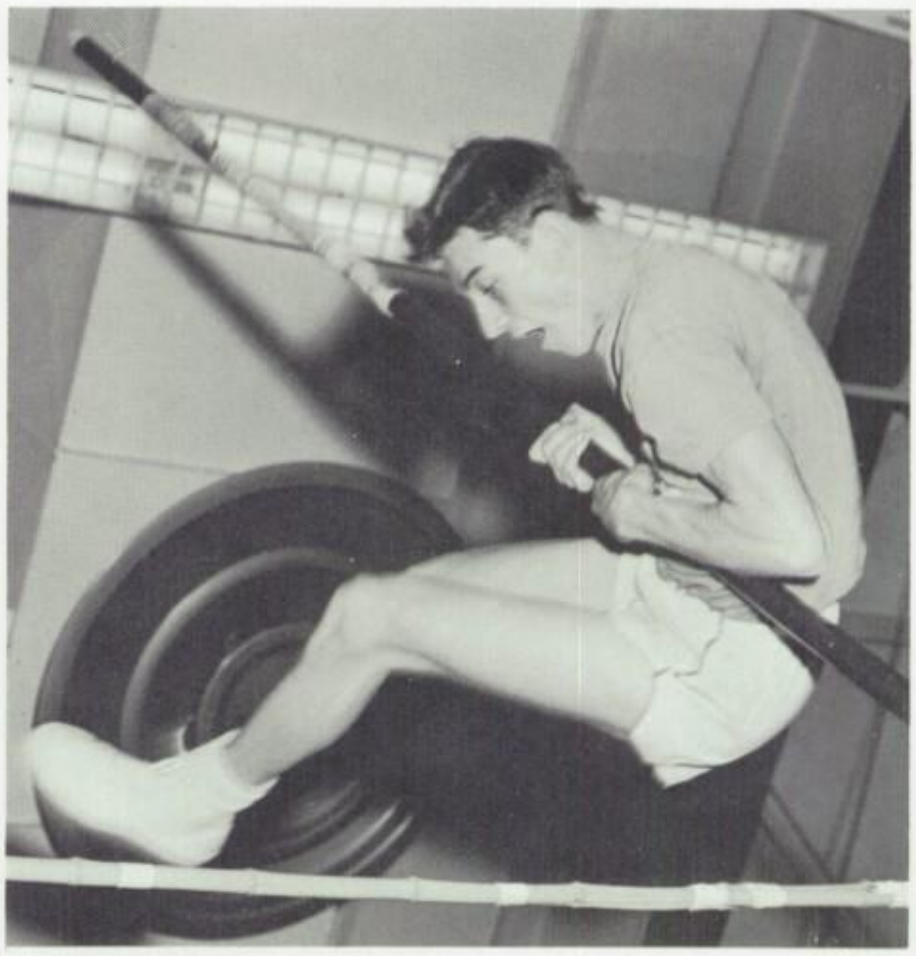
Track Squad Ende



Pole vaulter Doug Trembath soared to dizzy heights as he cleared the 11 foot mark during an intrasquad meet.

LEFT: Throwing his arms high, broad jumper Dick Naef gained momentum as he strained for every possible inch.

The 1965 track season began with nine lettermen and fifty-eight new candidates reporting to coaches Bill Smiley, Richard Dix, and practice teacher Gene Dix. Competition began with a sprint relay team composed of Mike Tranetzki, Jim Leittermann, Jerry Bellas and Lynn Buss running in the Milwaukee Journal Games, only to have a disqualification ruin an otherwise excellent performance. In the annual "warm-up" meet held in the boy's gym, Wausau defeated Antigo 70-29.

Despite a record breaking victory by half-miler Everett Goodwin, the Lumberjacks finished fifth in the Wisconsin Rapids Indoor Invitational meet, and one week later they were edged by a single point in the Rapids Relays. The indoor season ended with Wausau tieing for sixth place in the Madison West Relays. One highlight of this meet was the second place finish by the shuttle hurdle team of Dick Naef, Jack Goetsch, and John Wiechman.

Wausau High's tennis team broke into the season with five returning lettermen. They were John Lang, Dave Zimbauer, Bob Sanford, Clark Oleson, and Robby Brodhead. In addition, Coach Lowell Johnson put high hopes in juniors Dave Johnston, Pat Reed, and Chris Evans. The entire squad played hard to equal the record of last year's team and to maintain the excellent Wausau High tradition.

Eleven Lettermen Boosted '65 Squad

The 1965 varsity diamondmen determined to improve the mediocre win-loss record of the previous season. With only one regular gone from last season, the coaches and team adopted an optimistic attitude that carried them through the tougher games. The offense was led by six batters who hit over .300. They were backed by veteran infielders Baumann, Camps, Gauerke, Greenfield, and McCabe, while Krolikowski, Volkman, and Driessen handled the outfield. At the start of the season pitching was considered the team's largest weakness, but after a shaky first doubleheader, hurlers Kislow, Semrau, Doede, Trantow, McElrath, and Alstad fired hard and accurately for the remainder of the season.

Shortstop Tom Camps applied the tag on a sliding Eau Claire North base runner after receiving a perfect throw from Wausau Senior High's veteran catcher Jerry McCabe.

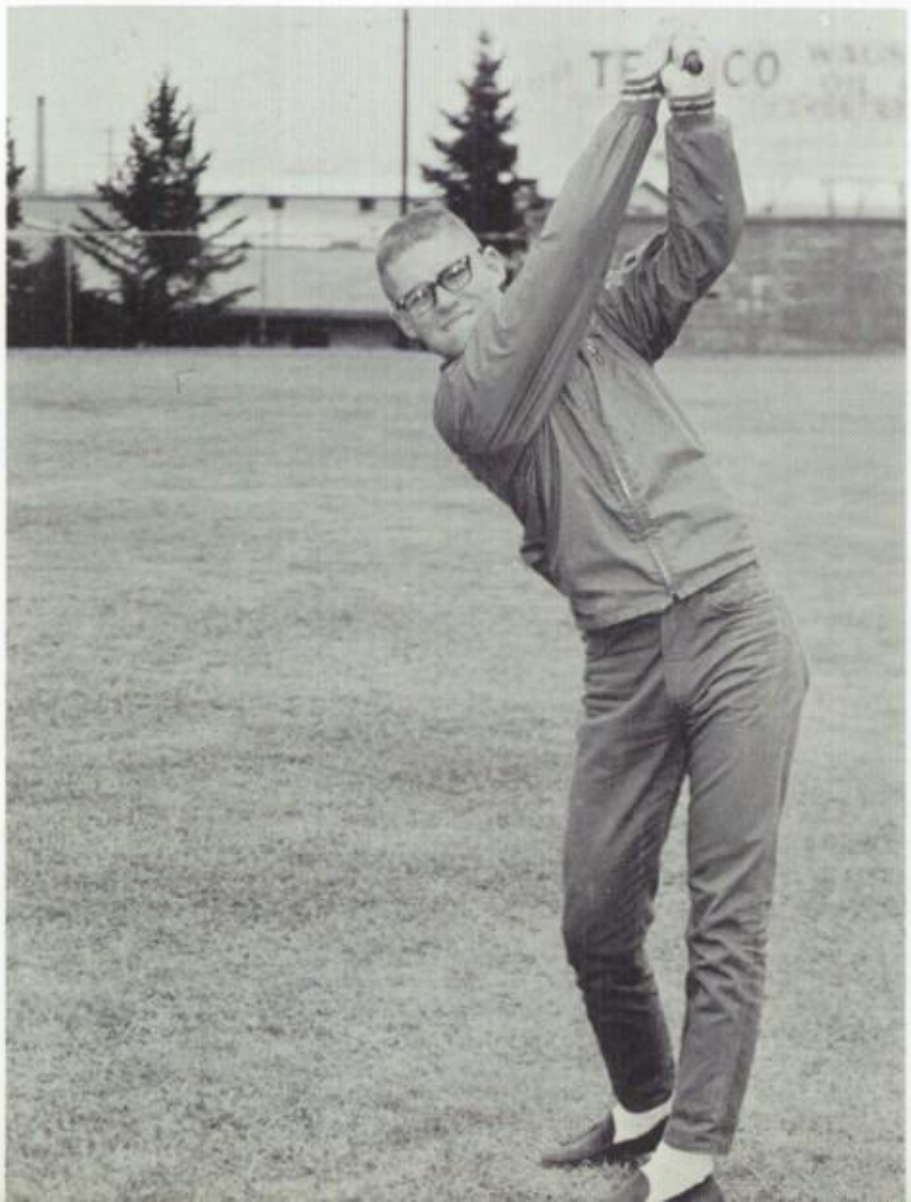
Five Veterans Added Depth To Golf Team

Wausau High's golf team scored remarkably well this year. The players not only had the ability, but the enthusiasm necessary for a winning season. Captains Halder and Ryan, as well as returning lettermen, Geisel, Christensen, and Brown, played well and were excellent influences on the rest of the team. After a thrilling season on the greens and fareways, the '65 golfers completed an impressive record, but more important, they acquired a wide reputation for their fine sportsmanship.

Bill Shepherd strained to get a glimpse of the ball as he practiced his iron shots at Athletic Park.



The 1965 golf lettermen were: (standing) Geisel, Halder, and Ryan; (kneeling) Christensen and Brown.

BOWLING CHAMPIONS

Intramural Sports Developed Athletes

By winning all of their games, homerooms A-9 and 105 not only emerged as the senior basketball champions, but also as the champs of the entire school. Just one game behind the seniors were the junior champions from 110 and 216, while room 201 captured the sophomore title. In the Wednesday night league Northwestern won the championship by defeating second place Illinois. Michigan State ran a close third.

Bowlers Best won the American League title with a 33-7 record, and the Alley Birds of the National League clinched the trophy by winning 34 and losing only 6.

BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS
BACK ROW: Weinberger, Dufeck, Dumdey, Jacobson.

HOMEROOM BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS

Cheerleaders Led Jacks To Victory

The "B" squad cheerleaders were: Paetzold (top), Miller and Gilbertson (middle), Hahn, Trembath, Werth, and Brose.

"V-I-C-T-O-R-Y. Victory, victory, that's our cry," yelled the cheerleaders as they generated school spirit and encouraged the Lumberjacks to win. In addition to these responsibilities, they also put up posters advertising the games and directed the pep assemblies. During the summer the varsity squad members attended the U.S.C.A. Camp All-American, where they learned new cheers. During the basketball season they co-operated with the Pep Club to jointly sponsor T-day, an event designed to boost the enthusiasm for tournament play.

Varsity cheerleading co-captains were Sandy Meyer and Sue Thomasgard; "B" squad captain was Jackie Miller. The cheerleaders' advisor was Mrs. Meuret.

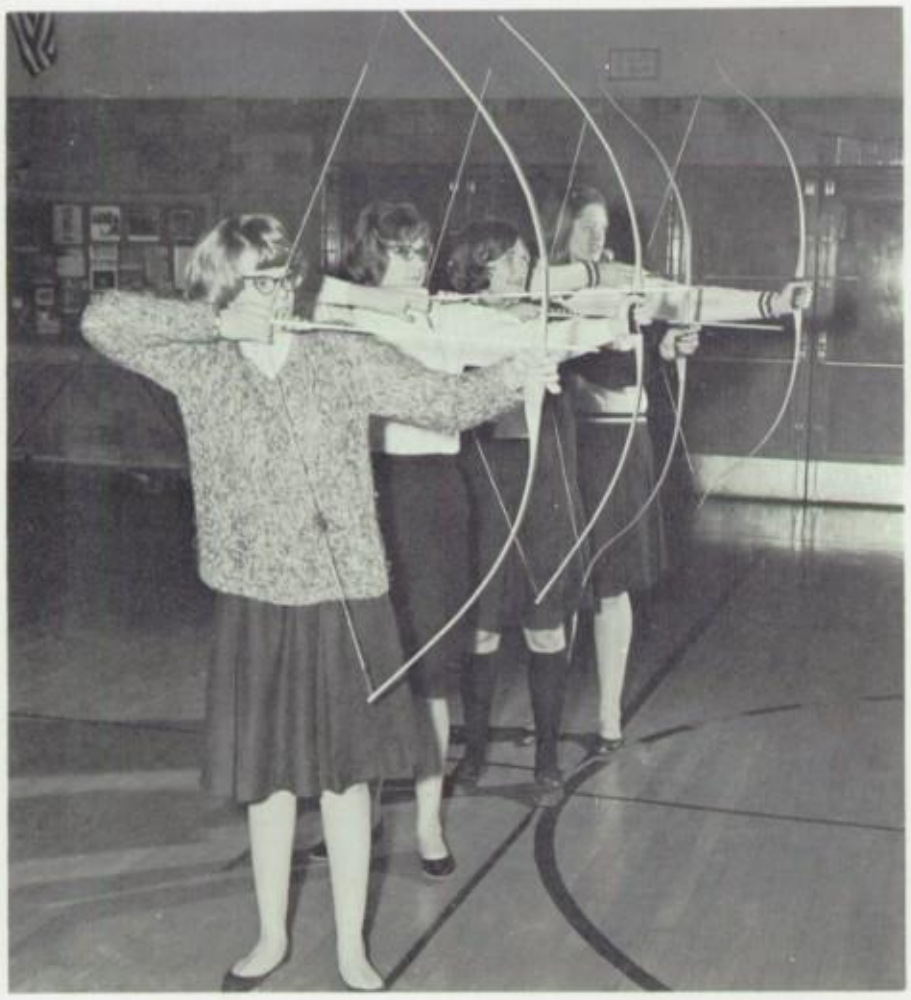
The Girls Athletic Association elected senior heads of sports who directed the year's competition. They were: Mary Wilde—golf, Arlene Colby—curling, Jean Sleeter—basketball, Sharon Gremler—volleyball, Kathy Donner—Badminton, Terry Jorstad—bowling, Sue Yunk—table tennis, Carolyn Tiffany—softball, Under the direction of Miss Becker, G.A.A. advisor, these girls did a fine job.

Because of the new system of lunch periods, the noon hour G.A.A. activities had to be eliminated. All of the games were played after school or in the evenings. Some sports events were held away from school such as bowling at the Wausau Bowling Center, curling at Marathon Park, swimming at Horace Mann Junior High and golfing at the American Legion. Pursuing these four sports, as well as all the rest on the long list of G.A.A. activities, enabled girls to increase their proficiency while experiencing healthy exercise and satisfying enjoyment.

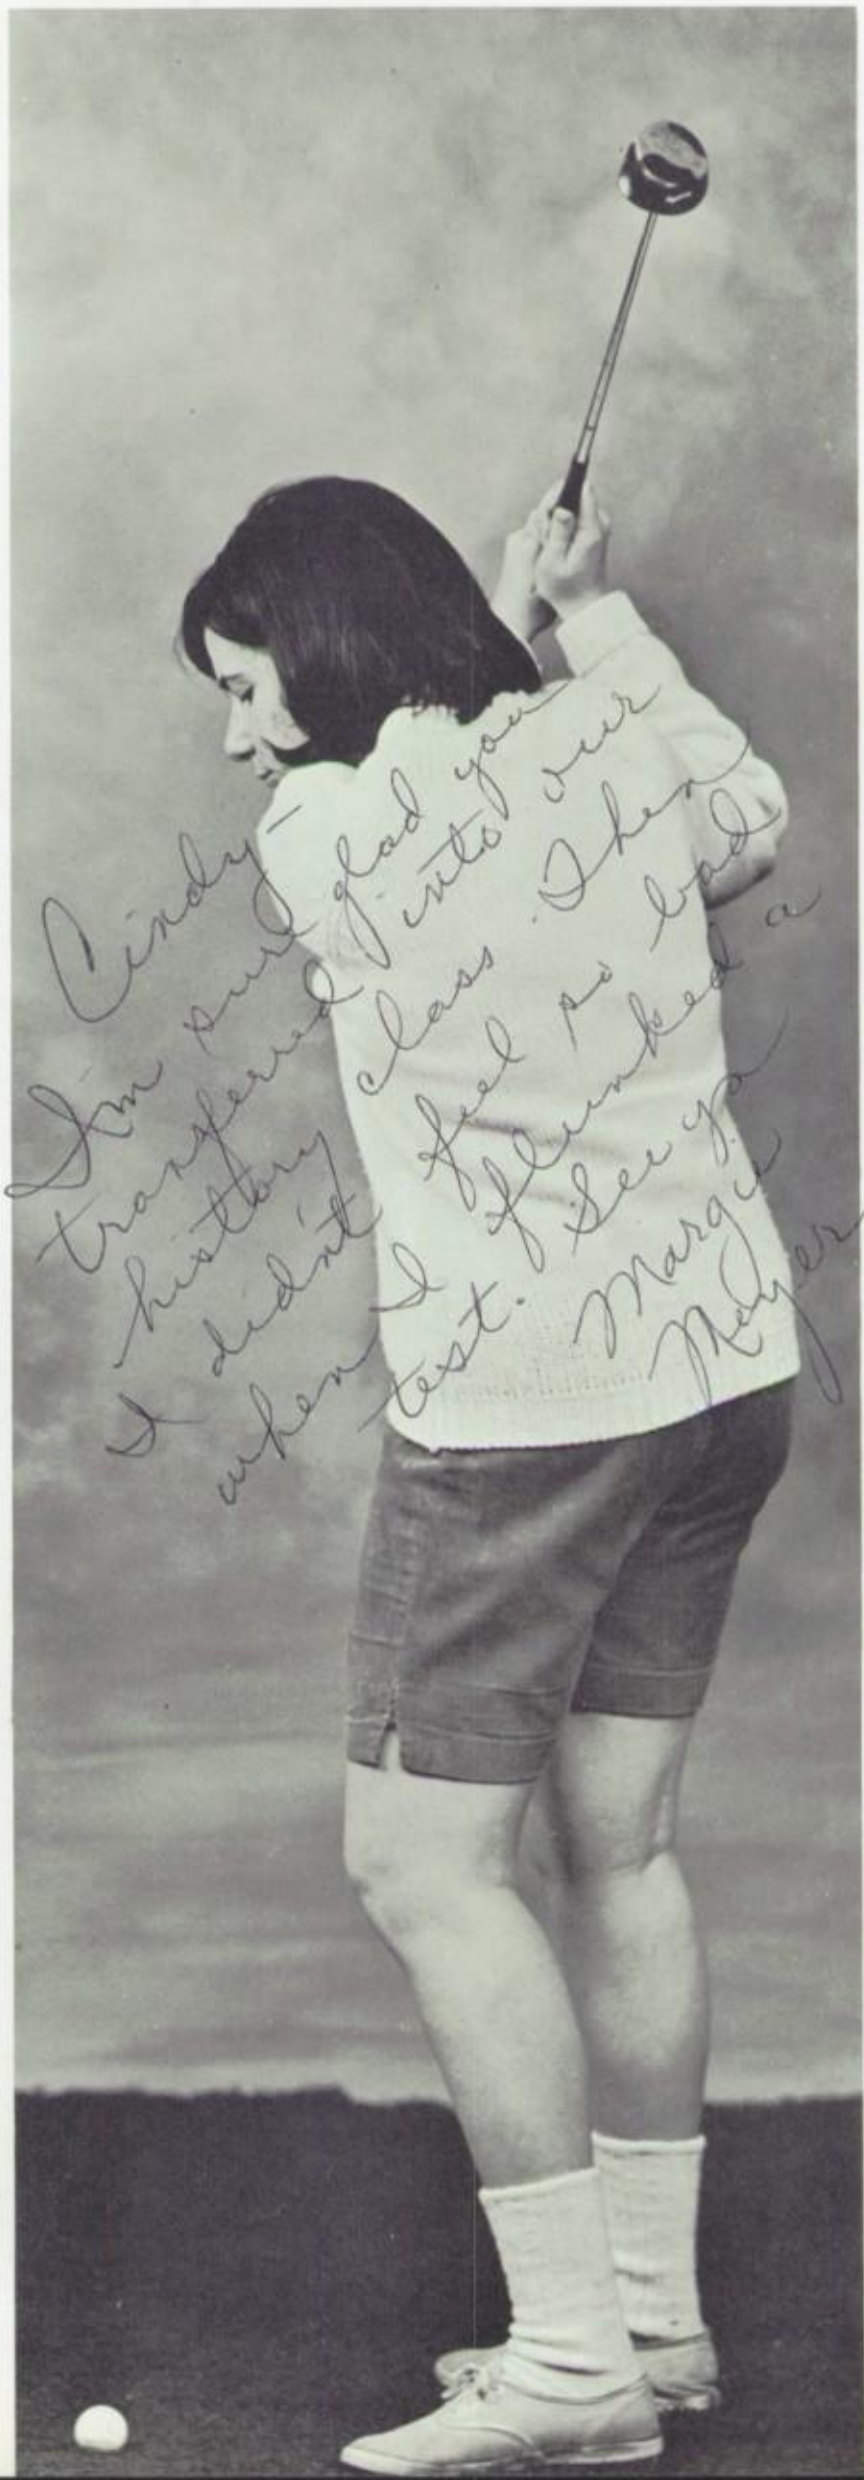
G.A.A. Sports Fostered Lively Competition

Table tennis champions Linda Werth and Phyllis Woehlert teamed up for some fun in a doubles game.

Georgianna Fehl, Penny Swanson, Dara DeHaven, and Barbara Schuetz perfected their archery form through rigid practice.



Senior head of golf Mary Wilde was "caught in the act" as she practiced for the G.A.A. tournament.



The Girls' Athletic Association Provided

G.A.A. was very successful this year as one of the largest and most active organizations in school. Its most popular sport was bowling, with 175 girls participating. The championship teams of the A and B leagues were captained by Judy Mueller and Julie Ohrmundt. In the play-off, Julie's team defeated Judy's for first place.

The girls' basketball season began with a clinic designed to review old rules and to teach new ones. In G.A.A. competition there were fifty-five participants who made up five teams. Sue Flaker's squad captured first place by winning three out of four games.

During the winter fifty girls joined G.A.A. curling. Although most of them were novices at the beginning of the season, by March the majority began to look like "old pros." The boy and girl curlers teamed up for a mixed bonspiel which was won by Steve Lonsdorf, Sandy Ostring, Robby Broadhead, and Kathy Gettino.

Mrs. Coyle, advisor to the water ballet group, taught ten girls the fundamentals of synchronized swimming. Another 111 girls enjoyed the sport of volleyball. Lynn Zastrow's team placed first by winning six out of seven.

Mrs. Coyle, advisor to the water ballet group, coached Moreen Reavill as she attempted a catalina.

Sophomores developed individual basketball skills during gym class and put them to use in G.A.A. competition.

Many Hours Of Enjoyment And Excitement

Jean Sleeter, skip of the first place G.A.A. curling rink, delivered a rock as her teammates Mary Schumacher, Marcia Kosmerchock, Anaig Coulouran, and Carolyn Tiffany observed.

Mrs. Meuret, a gym instructor, studied and criticized Janice Schalow's attempt at a volleyball spike. Students used such skills in class work, G.A.A. competition, and informal play.

CLASSES

Commencement brought pangs of regret to seniors, but to juniors it suggested thoughts of being the mightiest of Lumberjacks in 1966. To sophomores it signaled relief from such titles as "greenies" or "scoff-mores". And to everyone commencement meant that a difficult but rewarding year had become a mere memory.

Cindy,
Have fun this summer, take it easy and I'll see you next year in band.

Senior Class Officers

When the Class of 1965 acquired the title of "Biggest and Best", it was confronted with a challenge that was difficult to fulfill. But with the combined efforts of many students, the class found itself equal to the job.

Looking back on the past three years, seniors find it hard to recall how so much activity was crowded into so short a time. They recollect with happy memories their Junior Prom "Sayonara", the Junior Girls' Dance "Holiday Enchantment", and the Senior Class Play "Teahouse of the August Moon."

Seniors reflect proudly on the honors which have been awarded to their fellow classmates. The Class of 1965 can claim a National American Legion Orator —Dave Marth, two state champion debaters—John Lang and Steve Weiner, and a host of National Merit Scholars. Seniors can also claim a share in many sports honors, including a state champion football team. The most important honor which the Senior Class has enjoyed along with the rest of the school was the 1964 Bellamy Award.

With a record such as this, the Class of 1965 has undoubtedly proved itself to be the undisputed "Biggest and Best!"

Class Of '65 Won Many Honors And Awards

Senior homerooms voted for the girl they thought most deserving of the Good Citizenship Award sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution. From the students' list the faculty picked the winner from the top three based on outstanding qualities of leadership, service, dependability, and patriotism.

The Elks Leadership Award is given to a senior boy and girl who display outstanding citizenship, leadership, resourcefulness, and perseverance. The winners receive a $150 bond and may compete on state and national levels.

The Elks Most Valuable Student Award is offered to a senior boy and girl in the form of a $150 bond. Qualifications include scholarship, personality, leadership, extra-curricular and outside activities, and financial need. The recipients compete state-wide and nationally.

Those eligible for the National Merit Scholarship Award must rank in the upper one percent of those taking College Board Tests. If they have qualifying grades they become national finalists or winners. Those qualifying this year included Chris Carspecken, Jamie Goertz, Judy Gray, Jim Kurth, John Lang, Jim Smit, Steve Weiner, and Peter Dyson. Letters of commendation went to Nancy Tinkham, Jim Wicke, Dennis Kaetterhenry, Tom Larson, Elaine Etzkin, Anne Mason, and Marsha Cutting.

The National Council of English Teachers Award is given to four seniors chosen from a field of thirty nominated top English students. Judging is based on writing ability. The finalists compete statewide, and state winners automatically become national winners. Finalists this year were Rod Nelson, (state winner), Chris Carspecken, Steve Weiner, and John Lang.

Junior Class Officers

Throughout the year the class of '66 engaged in many activities which were beneficial to all. The Junior Class sponsored two social events — the Prom and the Junior Girls' Dance. Two committees of junior students worked on preparations for these events.

The selection of the class rings was made by all candidates running for Junior Class offices. It was felt that this group was best qualified to make the decisions because they were chosen as leaders of their class.

The Junior Class tried to excell in all activities in which they were involved and to set high standards for all those who follow them at Wausau Senior High. To achieve this goal, many Juniors participated with high hopes of success in the National Merit Scholarship program and in the PSAT tests.

Juniors were given a chance to elect class officers from a qualified field of candidates during their class meeting held in the boys' gym. Last year's sophomore President Sheldon Geiger introduced all candidates to the class and allotted each presidential candidate five minutes to speak about his qualifications.

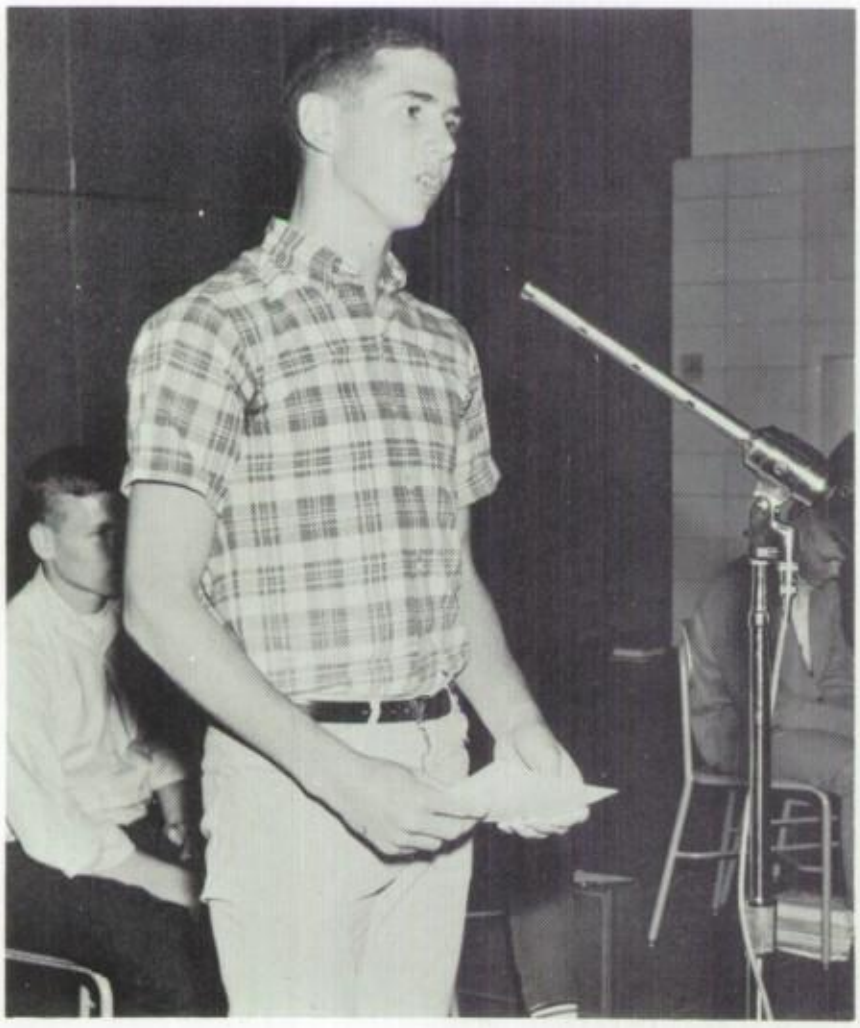
Juniors Displayed Striking Individualism



The office of Junior Class President carries with it honor and responsibility. Dave Ullrich, speaking before his classmates, demonstrated that he was qualified to accept both.

Bill Jensen realized that he had to study long and hard to achieve high scholastic standing. However, he preferred the tried and true method of "readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic". Bill staunchly advocated McGuffey's Reader for all high school students. None of this modern education for him.

"Excuse me please, could you tell me how to get to room 213?" This type of question was very common in the fall, but toward spring the sophomores advanced beyond the point of complete ignorance. Finally becoming oriented, they settled down to their first year at Wausau Senior High.

As sophomores they claimed a share in W.H.S. It was their football team, their homecoming, their school song, and their spring play. They enjoyed the pleasures of high school life and accepted its disappointments. They even reconciled themselves to watching assemblies on closed-circuit television!

Next year as juniors, they will plunge into a wider realm of student activities, assuming the responsibilities and privileges of upperclassmen. Good luck sophomores — one year down, two to go!

These sophomores seemed very intent and enthusiastic about their first Wausau Senior High class election. It brought the two junior high schools together, and a healthy rivalry resulted in a close race. Presidential speeches were a vital part of the program to acquaint the students with candidates from both Horace Mann and John Muir.

Every year sophomores are confronted with new problems on the lowest rung of the ladder of success. Chuck Kellogg found locker combinations to be a cause of frustration.

The newest section of the school's three buildings, the cafeteria and gym, provided modern facilities for the comfort of all Wausau High students. Sophomore Chris Evans was content to relax with a sandwich and a telephone.

Remember these people?

Last year they were your classmates at WHS. Now they're working for Employers Mutuals of Wausau.

Ask them how they like their jobs . . . how they feel about working for one of the nation's most important insurance companies. Ask them about the pleasant surroundings, the friendly people, and the chance for advancement at Employers Mutuals.

Our national "Wausau Story" ads say that we're "good people to do business with". We think you'll find us good people to work with, too.

Needless to say, the hard working WAHISCAN editorial staff was more than relieved to meet the publisher's last deadline. Sitting were: Peg Post, Bill Short, Turi Stolen, and Clark Stevens. Standing were: Larry Hannemann, Ron Lassow, Nancy Tinkham, Sue Ross, Julie Foerster, Roald Rolfson, Sue Ninnemann, Tom Camps, Pete Hessert, and Jane Bangle.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Ray Gehring and Ray Toburen, official WAHISCAN photographers, found themselves on the opposite side of the viewfinder.

A wonderful editorial staff, full of enthusiasm, determination, and originality, truly made the 1965 WAHISCAN the "biggest and best" WAHISCAN ever produced. To all of these dedicated and conscientious workers go my sincerest thanks.

Without Mr. Rosenhauer's patient encouragement and willing advice, especially before those pressing deadlines, this book could never have been published. So heartfelt thanks go to "Rosy" also.

Next on the list, but certainly not less important, is the Toburen Studio. Special thanks go to Ray Toburen and Ray Gehring who worked overtime to fulfill the almost impossible requests of the editorial staff.

Thanks also to Principal Marshall Taylor, who picked up $300 for the colored picture on pages 2 and 3; to Mr. Reynolds and the office secretaries, who suffered through announcing hundreds of WAHISCAN pictures; to Mr. George Bush, who took the sophomore and junior portraits; to Mrs. Hodges, who so capably managed yearbook distribution; to Mr. Dzubay and the business staff, who produced an "A-OK" advertising section;; to the Wausau Daily Record-Herald photographers, who contributed numerous pictures; and especially to the Fey Publishing Company, the S. K. Smith Company, and the Boehm Bindery, who produced the end result.

Hi Cindy:

Gee, I don't know what I would write if I had to fill the entire page. I'm glad we have this small time, Noon hour, to get each others last words before we part. That sounds mussy! Anyway I sure was happy to see you in school whenever you didn't decide to skip... Hmm. Also seeing you in the locker room just after your class and just before mine started. One thing I always enjoyed from those meetings, was your friendly smile and Cheery, "Hi ya Judy"..
I think your sweet and one of the nicest girls I know. I'll miss seeing you next year but as I'm a Senior I must be leaving in fact to Minneapolis at 3708 West 84th Street Minneapolis, Minnesota. 55431.
I hope that you will write to me soon as I will get lonely.

Be good to your fellow people + I wish you much happiness + success in everything you do.

Best Wishes,

Your friend always.
